Commonwealth To Study Impact Of U.K. In ECM

LONDON (CP) — Officials from Commonwealth countries meet here next week to resume discussions dealing with the economic impact of Britain's anticipated entry into the European Common Market.

Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith, a former Canadian diplomat, said in a statement today the arrangements allowing for association of 20 underdeveloped Commonwealth states with the enlarged market will be major topic for consideration. A spokesman for the Commonwealth secretariat said a meeting between the 20 countries and 18 French-speaking African countries already associated with the Common Market has been postponed because of disagreements between the two groups.

The meeting, which had been scheduled for Geneva early in September, may still be held before the end of the year in an African city yet to be determined, the spokesman said.

The disagreement apparently arises from the desire of the French-speaking African states to have the first meeting without the Commonwealth countries held at ministerial level.

The 20 Commonwealth countries contend they have not yet decided on the particular form of association to seek and have been pressing for an initial meeting below ministerial level to provide an opportunity for exploratory talks.

The French-speaking African states are associated with the Common Market under the Yaounde Convention and argue that the Commonwealth states should choose this form of association prior to any meeting.

The three-day Commonwealth discussions which start Tuesday, will try to formulate a compromise position acceptable to the Yaounde states.

Westside Fire Kills Man

A fire Thursday which destroyed a cabin on Bear Lake Road also took the life of a person whose remains have yet to be identified.

The RCMP confirm there was a body found in the charred ruins of the cabin which belonged to Charles Swite of Bear Lake Road, but identification was almost impossible until dental checks could be made.

There was speculation the body was that of Mr. Swite as his whereabouts are still unknown. The fire started Thursday morning and was attended to by the Lakeview Heights Fire Department and the RCMP. The cabin was almost completely destroyed before the fire department arrived. Investigation into the identification of the body was continuing today.

Button Sold For $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver woman who bought a $19,300 diamond for $1 sold it Thursday for $3,000.

She said police harassment prevented her from holding out for a better price.

Shirley Martin said she was taken to the city police station twice for questioning and swallowed the diamond when RCMP attempted to take it from her.

"I wasn't worried about where it might go," said Mrs. Martin. She said she bought a 10 box of old buttons a month ago at a Salvation Army thrift store and discovered the gem among the buttons only two weeks ago.

Mrs. Martin said that while she was at a jewelry store, where the diamond was appraised at $19,300, two RCMP officers asked her to come outside.

"But the jeweller said nobody could take it from me so I made sure of that I swallowed it quick."

She said she recovered the diamond two days later at home.

After police checked the stolen property and lost property lists and came up with a blank, Mrs. Martin on Thursday took the diamond back to the jeweller who had appraised it at $19,300 and sold it to him for $3,000.

Downed Pilot Found Alive

HALIFAX (CP) — The lone occupant of a light helicopter missing since June 30 has been found alive in the Payne River area of northern Quebec, the Canadian Forces search and rescue centre here said today.

A spokesman for the centre said the man, whose full name was not immediately available, had been the subject of an intensive search but it was called off earlier this week.

He was found Thursday night by an aircraft belonging to St. Fielix Airways.

The man is in hospital in Fort Chimo, Que. near the southern end of Ungava Bay. The rescue centre had no details of his condition.

The helicopter apparently ran out of fuel en route from Povungnituk, Que. on the east coast of Hudson Bay, to Deception Bay on the northern tip of Quebec. The rescue centre said the helicopter was some 150 miles off its intended flight path when it went down.

Cairo Ponders Russian Ouster

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt's parliamentary body was scheduled to meet in emergency session today as the air-lift of Soviet military experts ordered out by President Anwar Sadat went into a fifth day.

An authoritative source said six plane-loads of Soviet military experts were due in Moscow within the next few hours. Many others already have arrived in the Soviet capital during the last few days.

The authoritative newspaper Al-Ahram, in a report from Moscow, said Soviet leaders Leonid Brezhnev, Nikolai Podgorny and Alexei Kosygin were holding a series of meetings with Soviet party central committee experts on developments of the last few days.

Quoting observers in the Soviet capital, Al-Ahram said efforts are being directed for "self-restraint and to withhold any reactions in an attempt to make a balanced reappraisal of the situation."

STUDY REPORTS The Soviet leaders were studying reports from the Soviet ambassador in Cairo, Vladimir

Vinogradov, and Gen. Okiniev, head of the Soviet military experts mission in Egypt. They also were scrutinizing the text of Sadat's statement on the experts to the central committee of the ASU last Tuesday, Al-Ahram added.

The name of the chief Soviet experts in Egypt never has been revealed before.

The obvious Moscow line now tends to reaffirm to the Arabs that the Soviet Union continues to stand by their side and on the other hand is trying to avoid any further complications of the situation, the newspaper said.

It noted a Tass statement to this effect which said the Soviet Union is determined to continue developing and consolidating relations with Egypt on the basis of joint struggle and for the "liquidation of Israeli aggression" to achieve peace and security in the Middle East.

Al-Ahram said Palestinian guerrilla leader, Yasser Arafat, at present in Moscow, is due in Cairo soon for talks with Egyptian officials on the situation.

Arafat would presumably convey the latest Soviet thinking to

Savage Bombing Onslaught Injures 70, Shatters Belfast

BELFAST (CP) — The Irish Republican Army went on a bombing rampage in Belfast today and the British army said it thought at least 13 persons had died in explosions in this Northern Ireland capital's downtown district.

More than 70 persons were listed as injured in the blasts which erupted just as the city was at its busiest with weekend shopping.

Seven civilians and three British soldiers were believed among those dead. At least 17 explosions rocked the city.

The guerrillas struck despite stringent traffic controls which bar much of central Belfast to automobiles.

A huge car bomb added to the devastation in the centre of Londonderry, North Ireland's second city.

KILLS SIX PEOPLE One of the first Belfast bombs exploded inside a bus station with yards of the city's fire headquarters. It killed at least four civilians plus two soldiers who responded to an alarm.

The streets were littered with glass and debris and stained with blood.

As the explosions died away, the city centre emptied without panic.

There were reports one bomb punched a hole in Queen Elizabeth Bridge, which crosses the Lagan River dividing the city. This is a top-security area.

All emergency services were put on full alert. Dozens of ambulances weaved through the traffic with sirens screaming. Hundreds of British troops swarmed into the city centre.

Several of the blasts set off fierce fires.

Earlier guerrillas had blasted a freight train off Northern Ireland's main rail line today as gunmen and bombers kept up their hit-and-run attacks. A Protestant news vendor was killed by raiders, and his wife shot and wounded as she knelt over his body.

The train's locomotive and 10 cars plowed off the line linking the province with Dublin in the Irish republic when it detonated a 50-pound mine near Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast.

None of the train crew was injured. Army sappers found another home-made mine on the line nearby. A railways spokesman said the line, broken by a six-foot-wide crater, would take two days to repair.

Ulster 'On Brink Of Disaster'

DUBLIN (Reuters) — A leading political representative of the Official wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army has attacked the more militant Provisional wing of the movement for its renewed bombing campaign in Northern Ireland and warned that the British province is on the brink of disaster.

Tom MacGiolla, president of the Official political wing, said Thursday night that rank-and-file members of the Provisionals were in a state of euphoria, thinking they had won their fight, while Ulster was in fact on the brink of disaster and facing the danger of massive sectarian warfare.

He was speaking at a dinner in Monaghan, about 60 miles northwest of Dublin.

Observers saw his speech as a further indication of the deep policy differences dividing the rival wings of the IRA. The Officials have maintained a ceasefire in Northern Ireland since May 29, while the Provisionals have continued their violence, apart from a 13-day truce.

The train was travelling from Londonderry to Dublin.

Irish Republican Army guerrillas have made several futile attempts to blow up the line. Last month two barrels of explosives were found on the track near the border.

FRAGILE SITUATION

McGovern Shores Up Labor Links

WASHINGTON (AP) — After returning briefly to Washington to strengthen his fragile ties with labor, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern today headed for South Dakota to resume his vacation and plot autumn campaign strategy.

McGovern won fresh offers of support in Washington and named former Democratic national committee chairman Lawrence O'Brien to his campaign staff to recruit support from reluctant labor and party leaders.

The South Dakota Democrat spent most of Thursday on the Senate floor where his vote helped defeat, 47 to 46, a bill designed to scuttle a Democratic-supported measure to raise the minimum wage by 1974 to $2.20 from $1.60 an hour, plus fringe benefits. The $2.20 minimum was approved 65 to 27.

McGovern said at a news conference he had received offers of campaign help from several Senate Democratic colleagues, including Stuart Symington of Missouri, Birch Bayh of Indiana and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

McGovern said he soon expects to have the endorsements of union leaders representing 10 million of the 13.5-million membership of the AFL-CIO. The giant labor union's executive council voted Wednesday to remain neutral in the November general election.

In Detroit, President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers union, said he and two AFL-CIO leaders plan a drive in an effort to swing union support behind McGovern.

Woodcock said Thursday that he will join on a labor campaign committee by Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, and Floyd Smith, president of the International Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

The executive board of the 1.4-million-member UAW voted unanimously Thursday to recommend endorsing McGovern. The UAW is not a member of the AFL-CIO.

Backers of McGovern said they hoped his vote on the minimum wage bill would bring him more labor support. The $2.20 ceiling was a major goal of the AFL-CIO.

The bill extends coverage to 7.4 million additional workers, including 1.2 million domestic servants.

It now goes to a House-Senate conference to reconcile differences between the Senate version and one approved earlier by the House of Representatives which provides a $2 minimum pay scale.

As approved by the Senate, the minimum wage would jump to $2 from $1.60 for most non-farm workers 60 days after enactment, and to the full $2.20 in two years.

The present minimum of $1.30 for workers on large farms would be raised to $2.20 in three years. The bill also repeals exemptions which now prevent many workers from getting overtime pay.

Spassky defeated Fischer in the first game, then lost to him in the third, and the fourth was a draw. So in terms of actual play Fischer now has won two games to the Russian's one.

PLAY AGAIN SUNDAY The sixth game in the 24-game series is scheduled for Sunday afternoon. With a win counting one point and a draw half a point, Fischer needs 12 1/2 points to take the title and with it $153,125 of the $245,000 prize money, while the Russian as the defending champion needs only 12 points to keep his crown and collect the winner's share of the money.

Playing in the white pieces Thursday afternoon, Spassky led with his favorite queen's pawn opening. Fischer went into a Nimzo-Indian defence, moving his knight to king's bishop three.

The first five moves repeated the first game, which Spassky won, then Fischer took a new tack, exchanged his bishop for a knight and steadily increased the pressure.

Spassky doomed himself on his 27th move, moving his queen to square B2 to protect his rook's pawn. Fischer seized on the opportunity, made an unexpected sacrifice — BxRP — and Spassky immediately realized his position was hopeless.

The champion appeared exhausted and stunned as he stopped the clock to signify defeat, stood up and shook hands with Fischer. The audience of about 600 roared with excitement. "Bravo! Bobby!" some shouted.

Fischer enlivened the hours Thursday before the match with a list of 13 demands on the Icelandic Chess Federation, including closing of the swimming pool at his hotel to everyone but him, a private tennis court, a new car, more American magazines.

There was the usual flurry of "Will he play?" or "Will he stay away?" He played.

Steamy, Stagnant Air Mass Causes Problems In East U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A steamy, stagnant air mass that has strained electric power supplies and caused pollution alerts remained anchored over the eastern United States today with no relief expected for a few more days.

The national weather service forecast more temperatures in the high 80s to middle 90s, a situation which sapped the reserves of electric utilities and led to blackouts or brownouts in scattered areas Thursday.

The week-long heat wave over the populous East was blamed on a Bermuda high that stretched to the Mississippi River valley and pumped humid tropical air up from the Gulf.

With the listless air, pollutants tended to collect and increased to dangerous levels in some areas.

In the Pittsburgh area, a first-stage pollution alert forced industry to cut back operations.

Eye irritation and shortness of breath were common complaints, especially in the downtown section.

Based on meteorological projections, the current episode is expected to develop into one of the more serious we've had," said a spokesman for the Allegheny County health department.

ALERT IN EFFECT

An emergency air pollution alert was in effect for four Ohio counties in the Ohio River valley steel-making region. State attorneys filed precautionary injunctions to bar industries from violating the order.

Rain showers brought relief to the New York metropolitan area Thursday night, washing the air of many pollutants and dropping temperatures to the low 70s. The respite was expected to be brief.

Similar showers eased the situation in the Albany, N.Y., area but lightning accompanying the storm knocked out a suburban electric power substation and blacked out 2,000 customers for two hours.

A spokesman for the New York Power Pool said it borrowed from Ontario Hydro again Thursday to provide a potential supply of 20 million kilowatts.

Consolidated Edison Co. cut voltage five per cent in New York City and Westchester County for two hours in mid-afternoon to prevent a massive blackout after a major power link tripped out 70 miles north of the city.

Benson Starts Aircraft 'Race'

The race will soon be on among aircraft manufacturers for the biggest single defence contract in Canada's peacetime history. Defence Minister Edgar Benson signalled the opening of the stakes Thursday in Ottawa when he announced that the government has decided to replace the Argus long-range maritime patrol aircraft with a new plane featuring an up-to-date surveillance system. The contract may be worth as much as $750 million, depending on the number of planes purchased and the pricing deal which is worked out. Mr. Benson told reporters that, although the exact number has not yet been fixed, it probably will be between 20 and 30. The per-unit cost should fall between $20 million and $25 million.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, again refused in Vancouver to deny or confirm Thursday reports that a merger is in the offing between the longshoremen and the Teamsters union. Mr. Bridges did say, however, that a statement could be expected "by Saturday."

A Vancouver man who worked toward obtaining his pilot's licence while on weekend passes from jail has been grounded by the law. Keith Stady, 41, who obtained his flying licence only a week ago, has been charged in Ashcroft with flying an aircraft while impaired. Stady was the object of a day-long search Wednesday after the rented Cessna 150 he was flying disappeared on a flight around the Chilliwack airport. The plane landed Wednesday in a field near Ashcroft.

The Nixon administration Thursday abandoned efforts to obtain tougher anti-strike legislation this year.

Jean Tremblay, of Lucerne, Que., says police have done nothing but laugh about the boulders crashing into his home twice a week. Mr. Tremblay bought his $50,000 property last year, little suspecting that rocks of 200 pounds would regularly force his wife Claudette and their children to flee for safety. The home is next door to Gatinseau Quarry, which had operated quietly until recently taken over by Claude Bernard, who turned it into a crushed stone quarry. Now two days a week dynamite blows 50-foot-square holes in solid rock and stones fly all over his 20-acre property. Mr. Tremblay says.

Local president Larry Crosthwaite said the stalemate was reached Thursday when the company rejected a proposal presented by the union on hours of work in an effort to end the three-week strike.

An increasing number of men students at Oxford University, England, are becoming impatient and blaming girls who set the pace in sex, a doctor said Thursday. Dr. J. M. Stewart, writing in the medical magazine Pulse, reported that increasing impotence among Oxford students can be attributed to "the reversal of sex roles, with women taking a more positive part." He added: "Females are more aggressive and they run around demanding sexual rights."

Dr. Peter Banks, president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association, was named president-elect of the British Medical Association at a recent meeting in Southampton, England. Mr. Justice Mayer Lerner of the Ontario Supreme Court in Sault Ste. Marie, Thursday awarded general damages of $107,250 and special damages of $26,631 to a woman who suffered permanent brain damage in

Russia Lofts 8 Satellites

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Russia announced today it has launched a new cluster of eight satellites aboard a single carrier rocket.

Tass news agency said the Cosmos 3 satellites, launched Thursday, were carrying "scientific equipment intended to continue space research." The report gave no further details of their mission.

It was the fourth Soviet multiple launching of automatic satellites, a technique Western experts believe is used to orbit navigational aids or observation satellites known as "spies in the sky."

But there also has been speculation that cluster shots are linked with the Soviet Union's manned space program. Eight spunkies were lofted together about a month before Soyuz 9 in April, 1970, and before Soyuz 11 slightly more than a year later.

One explanation could be that prolonged manned flights presumably require more complex radio links with ground control than shorter missions.

But no manned flight followed the third multiple launch last October. Thursday's shot was on a widely different orbital angle from that used by Cosmos satellites believed to be connected with Russia's manned program.

Soyuz 11, Russia's last manned mission, ended in tragedy in June last year when the three cosmonauts on board were killed by a pressurization failure in their earth-landing capsule.

The spunkies, numbered from 504-511 in the 10-year-old Cosmos series, orbited earth for the first time in slightly more than 115 minutes, Tass said.

Orbital altitude was varying between 957 and 886 miles, and their flight path was at an angle of 74 degrees to the equator.

Equipment on board was working normally and a computing centre was processing data the spunkies radioed back to earth, Tass added.

S. Vietnam Launches New Drive Against Reds In Central Coast

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese forces have launched a new offensive on the central coast, in Binh Dinh province, seeking to regain control of three district towns, 200,000 inhabitants and a rich rice harvest, the Saigon command announced today.

Spokesmen said the first objective of the 10,000-man drive was the district town of Bong Son, and they reported some government troops were within 500 yards of the town limits.

The operation was launched Wednesday and thus far has encountered only light resistance, the command said.

The Bong Son district, on Highway 1, is between Tam Quan and Hoai An, the other two districts government troops hope to regain. The North Vietnamese captured all three in April.

Field reports indicated there had not been much change in the situation, with the forward-most South Vietnamese troops still about 50 yards away from the Citadel, which the North Vietnamese hold, in the heart of the city.

Reuter news agency said South Vietnamese troops reoccupied Hoai Nhon at mid-day today.

Military sources said the government troops pushed across the Lai River bridge into the centre of the town and raised the government flag at mid-day. They met virtually no resistance, they added.

Communist forces swept down from the jungle-covered inland mountains in late April to capture Hoai Nhon and Hoai An towns during an attempt to slice the country in two at its centre.

REDS MOVE OUT
American sources reported that heavy concentrations of Communist troops had been detected moving west and north away from Hoai Nhon.

The counter-offensive is the second in the three-month campaign that President Nguyen Van Thieu announced June 19 to retake all territory lost to the North Vietnamese in the Communist offensive and to drive Hanoi's forces out of South Vietnam.

Pelicans Blown Into Desert

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Wildlife specialists are trying to capture several Gulf of California pelicans that turned up in the southern Arizona desert in the last week.

At least nine of the three-foot-tall seagoing birds have been spotted in Tucson and various other cities, Charles Hanson, curator of birds and mammals at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, said Wednesday. He said the birds, apparently blown hundreds of miles inland by a Gulf storm, face starvation on the hot desert unless they are caught, fed artificially and then transported back to salt water.

One of the pelicans already has died, the apparent victim of a dog, Tucson City Zoo officials said.

HANDICAPPED CHILDREN WAIT FOR BOATS (TOP) AND LOAD UP FOR LAKE CRUISE (BOTTOM)

Two-Hour Cruise For Handicapped

Some 35 handicapped children from the Lion's Easter Seal summer camp at Okanagan Centre were treated to a two-hour cruise on the 'briny' Thursday, courtesy of the Kelowna Yacht Club.

Eight boats from the club picked up their eager charges at the OK dock and whisked them off on a breezy jaunt around Okanagan Lake, including a brief stop-over at the Fintry Estates.

In operation for the past four years, the camp offers an ideal recreation and instructional experience for handicapped children and adults from all parts of the Okanagan. The facilities are under the direction of camp director Douglas Gillian, and the current 10-day session for cleftic fibrosis cases include the assistance of nine student nurses besides a regular staff of 15 counsellors, two full-time nurses, a cook, a kitchen girl and helper.

Nine 10-day camps are conducted during the year, beginning from mid-June to Aug. 18, and offers such diversionary delights as swimming, volleyball and basketball, tennis, hikes, arts and crafts, campfires, sing-songs and games. To date, three children and one adult camp have been conducted.

Welcoming a change from their dedicated duties, lifeguard Gordon Govan and Vancouver student nurses, Mrs. Murray Apps and Joan Stewart, hitched a ride in one of the boats, and were just as enthusiastic as the children.

The camp is supported by provincial Easter Seal campaigns, conducted locally by the Kelowna Lions Club every March.

IN COURT

Ernest Steve Shawaga of Rutland appeared in provincial court charged with possession of stolen property and the case was remanded for a pre-sentence report to Aug. 4.

Paul Edward Surface of Kelowna, charged with remaining in Canada beyond his visa, had the charge remanded to Aug. 18 to allow him time for an appeal already launched against

Doak Blames B.C. Government For Lake Damage

The damage to lake property resulting from the break-up of Lake Okanagan waters over predicted weeks before the provincial government took action, according to provincial Progressive Conservative candidate for South Okanagan Jim Doak.

Speaking in Rutland Mr. Doak said the damage was solely the responsibility of the provincial government who had caused the damage by allowing the lake to rise above its agreed maximum. He added the government has had 20 years to prevent the flooding which took place this year.

"While other areas in Canada built floodways, flood control and diversions, the Seared government failed to take these precautions," he said.

The government, he said, had added insult to injury by holding up flood relief compensation using the federal government as the scapegoat.

"The provincial government should have met its own responsibilities and paid the loss on merit rather than making a partial payment in pre-election fever and buckpassing," he said.

The reason the riding of South Okanagan has often found itself in a vacuum between elections, Mr. Doak said, was because the Premier abandoned the riding in favor of "political buffoonery". He added the people of the riding were no longer prepared to buy another four years of this type of political inaction.

LAKE LEVEL

Okanagan Lake is continuing its downward trend and now stands at 103.07 feet, down one one-hundredths of an inch from Thursday's 103.08 reading. The local water rights branch reports release flow at Pentice has maintained a 1,800 cubic feet a second reading since June 26, and foresees no immediate change in the flow rate. The cfs figure represents 4,000 acre-feet of water every 24 hours.

SEEN and HEARD

Dale Parker, scout for the Milwaukee Brewers arrived in Kelowna on Thursday to take in the B.C. Babe Ruth Senior baseball tournament and became a 'pinch hitter' unexpectedly. He was drafted to be the guest speaker at the banquet tendered by the government and people of the province of British Columbia at Capri Thursday, when the scheduled guest was unable to make it.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Griffith of Courtenay, B.C., are among many husband and wife teams who are attending the 1972 B.C. Babe Ruth Senior Baseball tournament hosted by Kelowna. Their two children Sheila and Jim are also here with their parents on a camping holiday. However, unlike most families, who have planned the tournament holiday for several weeks, the Griffiths had about 10 days to plan as that is exactly how long Mr. Griffith has been manager of the team. He drove one carload of young men and his wife brought another carload of players.

The historical branch of Edmonton's parks and recreation department is on the lookout for information about the Hudson's Bay Fort Edmonton as it existed in the 1840s. The material is needed for authentic reconstruction of the post. Missing are Hudson's Bay archive files between 1834 and 1854, which could possibly exist in a private collection. Information on the missing files should be relayed to the Historical Exhibits Building, 10105-112 St., Edmonton, Alta.

A team of skydivers from Kamloops, The Blue Angels, will perform at 7:30 p.m. today at Fintry Estates, on the west side of Okanagan Lake.

Youth Hostel Overcrowded In Kelowna Says Supervisor

Robert Tarrant, a supervisor at Kelowna Youth Hostel, said recently the hostel was overcrowded. Chris Olin, another supervisor, said the peak night was July 13 with 81 young people staying at the hostel.

During the weekend, the hostel had a total of 212 persons housed. There were 69 on Friday, 75 Saturday and 68 persons on Sunday, and there are only 40 bunks. Mr. Olin said mattresses were laid on the floor.

Mayor Hilbert Roth said it was unfortunate the hostel was overcrowded. He said if they're going to get a hostel program, they should get facilities to compensate for larger crowds.

The mayor suggested it was "first come, first served" and perhaps if "they're resourceful" the hostel could arrange for sleeping accommodations in private homes to compensate for crowds. This could be done in conjunction with the present program.

Mayor Roth said there were 20,000 people in this area, but only 8,900 taxpayers. He feels they are "pushed to the limit."

He said the federal and provincial governments should support the line of cost for proper hostels.

The mayor suggested one could use metal type buildings used for warehouses and take a "barrack approach," or better still, use some buildings at the Vernon Army camp.

Rev. Bernie Black, a director on the hostel committee, said he didn't think there were any definite negotiations going on with persons about finding other facilities to compensate for the crowds.

Funeral Saturday For Kelowna Man

Memorial service will be held from St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, Saturday at 2 p.m. for David Joseph Day, 85, of Kelowna, who died Tuesday.

Surviving Mr. Day are his wife, Frances; three sons, Jim and Frank of Vancouver, David in Celista, B.C.; his daughter, Mrs. Mari McKenna of Ottawa; 21 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; one brother and three sisters in Australia.

In lieu of flowers donations to the B.C. Cancer Foundation would be appreciated.

... Sunny

The weatherman offers a varied forecast for Saturday, promising sunny skies with afternoon and evening cloudy periods. He further predicts a few showers or thunderstorms during the afternoon and evening. Highs will be near 80 degrees. High and low in the city Thursday was 81 and 45 degrees with a trace of rain, compared to 80 and 39 degrees with no precipitation recorded for the same day at the airport. Overnight lows today will be 45 to 50 degrees.

Bennett's Stand Pleases Tait

South Okanagan provincial Liberal candidate, Roger Tait, said today he was pleased that Premier Bennett has reversed his stand concerning relief to flood victims.

"Widespread criticism throughout the province has forced Mr. Bennett to back off from his personal vendetta with Ottawa," Mr. Tait said.

The Liberal candidate said there was no room for "political gamesmanship" when the misfortune of flood victims is at issue. He said the need now was for an investigation as to why the Okanagan Lake level was improperly managed.

"The residents of low lying areas along the lake have the right to know the truth as to why the lake was not drawn low enough," he said.

Sewer Improvement Plan Would Cost $2.1 Million And 30 Years To Finish

The city's engineering department has presented council with a sewerage improvement program which would take 30 years to complete at an estimated cost of $2.1 million.

Contained in a detailed 103-page report, prepared under the direction of assistant city engineer W. S. Lakevold, the recommended construction program would take place in four stages between now and 2001.

According to city engineering director Nelson Deck, "increases in population density and greater water use, coupled with a high ground water infiltration rate have resulted in an overloaded condition in some of the main elements of the sewerage system, especially in the older sections of the city."

The first of the four stages, to take place between 1972 and 1976, would see the pumping capacity increased at the Guy Street pumping station; the Water Street force main "rehabilitated"; a new sewer line built on Water Street; sewage in the area of Rose Avenue diverted to the hospital pumping station and the outfall into Okanagan Lake, near KLO Road, enlarged.

10 DISTRICTS

The report divides the city up into 10 separate districts, based on the existing sewage collection systems. Future land use and population densities were based on existing trends, on the advice of the regional planning board and on various studies.

It says that any rezoning which would result in greater population densities, "should only be allowed when the city has approved the construction of all but the outfall enlargement recommended in the first stage of the construction program."

A city population of 43,750 is projected for the turn of the century.

The report also calls for a comprehensive storm drainage program.

"Storm sewers," it says, "should be a requirement in all new subdivisions and should be constructed in older districts as finances permit and in conjunction with street improvements."

Also recommended is an inspection and testing program "to determine the condition and expected remaining useful life of the complete sewer system." The report suggests that inferior inspection of all pipe by closed-circuit TV could be staged over several years, with the first priority given to sewers under roads slated for reconstruction.

Further, it recommends an investigation of the source and amount of infiltration into the sewer system, as well as the feasibility of reducing leakage of ground water into the system by chemical sealing agents or other means.

A leakage survey of the water distribution system should be made, the report says, "to resolve the apparent discrepancy between water consumption and sewage flows during the winter season."

Finally, it suggests that in order to assist in monitoring both the sewer and water systems, water meters should be installed in all water services except those serving single-family and duplex residences.

The report anticipates a need for a new interceptor sewer to provide service north into the Glenmore Valley, which, if installed, could pick up the most northerly sections of the Glenmore collection system and relieve the "downstream bottlenecks" in the trunk sewers on Bernard Avenue and Ethel Street.

The city's engineers feel their recommended improvement program could handle the city's sewage collection needs for 30 years, but emphasize that it is only a guide.

"Land use patterns may be considerably changed from those assumed from this study, and as a result the system improvements will need to be altered to meet the new requirements."

"In the meantime, the high priority projects should be completed as soon as possible in order to maintain an adequate level of service that will encourage, rather than deter future growth."

ORAL HYGIENE

Program Used By 102 People

An oral hygiene instruction program by the South Okanagan Health Unit has attracted 102 people in various age groups this year.

The total represents more than 395 appointments of 30 to 45 minute duration, with most patients requiring an average of three appointments. The program followed an extensive educational drive in the city relating the need for awareness of periodontal disease. Residents were encouraged to register at the dental centre for improvement of dental hygiene status through a "plaque control" and all dentists in the area could refer any patient in need to the centre.

Patients were involved in a screening process, advised of the need for dental treatment and placed on a "patient hygiene performance index." A registration fee of $1 provided soft tooth brushes, dental floss, disclosing tablets and perio aids. The preventive treatment course was designed to set up a positive attitude toward oral hygiene by explaining the preventive philosophy as a combination of proper home and professional care from the family dentist.

It was also stressed a long term basis of such relationship was required for salvation and retention of teeth.

The dental centre estimates "over 50 per cent" of people require oral hygiene to avoid periodontal disease and eventual dentures. Currently, the majority of dentists are not referring patients to the health centre and hygiene classes for various reasons.

The report indicates the centre intends to continue and offer many educational and preventive programs "because of the great expressions of appreciation from people who have been through our clinic."

4,100 Attend Watch Tower Assembly Here

About 3,300 Jehovah Witness delegates attended the opening of the Wa. Tower Diving Rulership district assembly at the arena Thursday.

Attendance swelled to more than 4,100 during evening sessions, which dealt with the practical application of Bible principles within households, congregations and public ministry. During the keynote address by G. W. Sallis, representing the organization's Toronto headquarters, a new instruction book was released outlining the Bible principles to be applied in carrying out their ministry.

Carpenters were busy Thursday morning constructing booths at various locations around the arena in preparation for the physical needs of delegates, and mobile kitchens dispensed more than 1,500 hot meals Thursday evening alone.

Today's program will culminate with a full costume drama of Joseph and his brothers, depicting the need for Christian mercy.

Local representation included W. J. Prince, P. O. Fossen, William Zannet and J. A. Flechl from the Kelowna congregation.

Fluoride Tablets At Cost

Fluoride tablets are available at cost at the dental health centre of the South Okanagan Health Unit, the Vernon Health Unit and Armstrong.

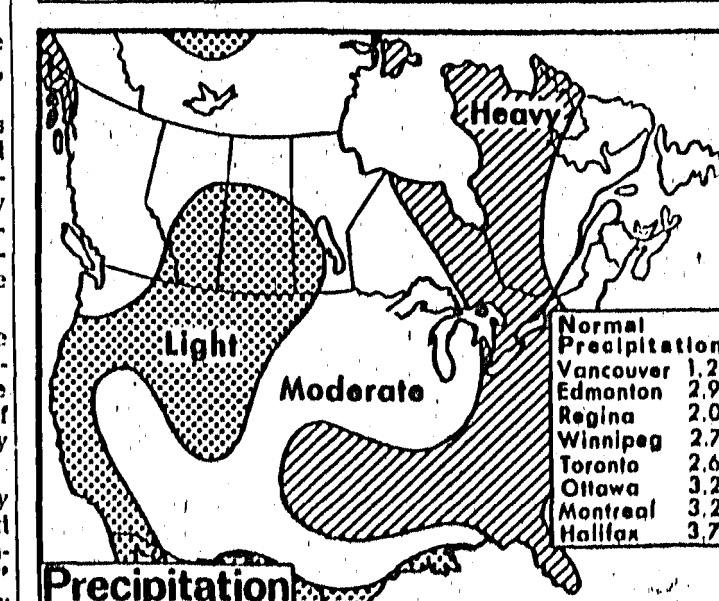

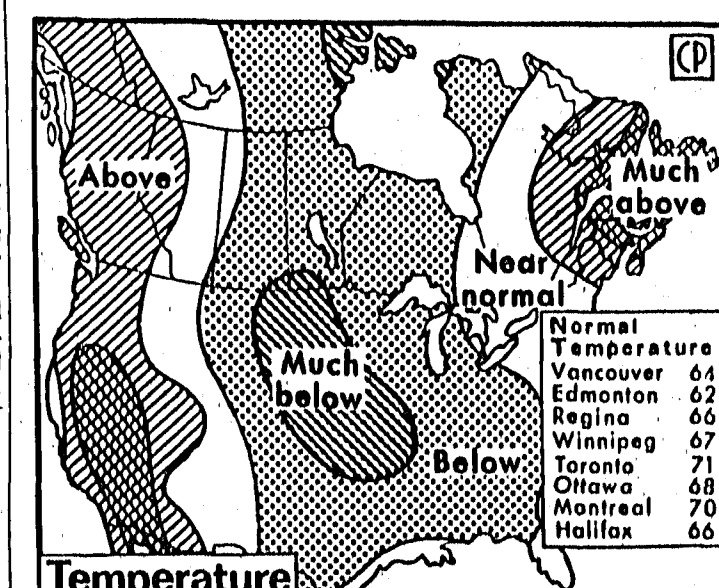

An Okanagan region report by Dr. Alan Gray, dental consultant, indicates fluoride supplements in the form of Pediatric chewable tablets or drops can be obtained at a cost of $1 for 90 tablets or two fluid ounces. Tablets are preferred because each child who uses the supplement is placed on the unit's register and the home is contacted when the prescription is due to run out so that a refill can be made.

The report says tablets also allow more precise calculation of dates and their chewable quality are more appealing to children. Tablets also produce a greater re-order tendency in parents, experience has shown, and keeping families on supplementary fluorides and the discouragement of family units to "slide off" fluoride care is the aim of the program, the report emphasizes.

The fluoridation program has attracted attention from dentists in other centres, and the program will hopefully be extended to Penticton, Salmon Arm and Kamloops next fall provided there is enough staff and interest by dentists.

Kelowna is currently without fluoridation in its domestic water supply due to damage to machinery in 1970. Replacement equipment is on order and should arrive in about a week, according to city officials.

MIXED BAG

British Columbia and the Atlantic provinces are expected to have temperatures above normal during the period mid-July to mid-August, according to the long-range outlook of the United States weather bureau. Northwestern Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will have below normal readings. Precipitation will be heavy in parts of Ontario and Quebec, light in the southern prairies and moderate elsewhere. The outlook is not a specific forecast and changes may occur.

SAILING AROUND THE WORLD

Kelowna Couple To Realize Travel Dream

A sailing trip in the West Indies seven years ago on a remote sloop, kindled the flame to travel for Larry Loughheed and his wife Grace of Kelowna. Mr. Loughheed is sales manager for Larry's Radio and TV in Kelowna.

At the end of this month, the Loughheeds will leave for Vancouver and will spend about a month outfitting their sailing ketch, "Summer Island", before leaving on an around-the-world cruise. The boat was built in Taiwan by Ta Chiao Bros.

One of the most important pieces of equipment to go on board will be the wind vane gear. Mr. Loughheed said it could steer 90 per cent of the time out at sea, relieving the fatigue of steering. He said one of the big problems of going to sea is fatigue.

Another item on board will be a marine radio and amateur radio and transmitter receiver. Mr. and Mrs. Loughheed will be the only crew.

A lightning class of sailboat was built for his family and they sailed this boat for about eight years. The family also sailed a Crown 23.

He has spent the last three years taking a power squadron course, and his wife spent the last year in the same program. They have read many books on the subject of sailing and have been planning "intensively for five years" on this round the world cruise.

The Loughheeds have sold their home and many other possessions. When asked if this did not give them a sense of insecurity, Mrs. Loughheed replied, "once you make the realization security is in oneself, we had no regrets in selling our home and other things."

Mrs. Loughheed added he had a feeling of "gratification" in doing away with materialistic possessions.

He said the journey will be a real challenge in terms of self-sufficiency, providing for themselves and navigation. Mrs. Loughheed said one insatiable one self, this structured society against the realities of life.

"Out there, you have only yourself to rely on," she added.

After the month spent in Vancouver outfitting the boat, the Loughheeds will go through sea trials, checking the function of the equipment on board. They will then proceed down the west coast of North America.

They do not have a rigid schedule in mind, because Mr. Loughheed said most of their lives have been rigid and scheduled. They will sail the south seas, through Panama to the Caribbean.

Although there will be constant maintenance chores on board, a library of about 150 to 170 books, ranging from technical to the classics will provide some relaxation.

Mrs. Loughheed said she was looking forward to reading books on the background of each country they will enter. Besides the books, the Loughheeds will bring a camera and cassette recorder. Mr. Loughheed had regrets on not having a recorder to record the native music when he was in the West Indies.

The vessel will carry 150 gallons of diesel oil and the same amount of water, along with a kerosene oven and stove, and wind directional instruments. The ham radio will provide contact between many new people, Mr. Loughheed said.

In the past at home, they have contacted people from New Zealand and the South Pacific by ham radio. They will get the opportunity to contact these old friends again.

Mrs. Loughheed is learning the guitar and will bring along artist supplies. She will also keep a journal to send back to the family. An official log will also be kept.

The Loughheeds have two children, a son Stephen, 21, and a daughter Lynn, 19. The Loughheeds said the children think the trip their parents are making is "fantastic."

Lynn herself is a sailing enthusiast. The boat is 41 feet in length with the main mast 50 feet. It has a 12 foot beam and draws six feet of water.

The exterior is made of fibreglass, with the inside teak. The boat is equipped with a galley, dining table, lounge couches, shower and toilet, beds and navigation table.

On the trip, the Loughheeds said they are more interested in smaller islands and less frequented ports of call. They have no fascination in commercial tourist interests. Rather, they are enthused in the everyday life of the people.

The Loughheeds will sail the Yacht Club and Power Squadron pennants, as well as the Canadian flag, and the flag of whatever countries' water they will enter.

As for type of clothing they are taking, Mrs. Loughheed said they have "good Canadian-made woolsens and cottons." They will also take a supply of good used clothing for island people, and intend to do a bit of "amiable bartering" for the island people's natural wonders.

Mr. Loughheed is experienced in electronics and took a course on furniture touchup, while his wife recently trained as a secretary. This will help supplement their income during the trip.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

THE WORLD TODAY

Russian Ouster A Total Surprise

By JOHN HARRBON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The withdrawal of Soviet troops and military advisers from Egypt is such an unexpected event, that for some time, any speculation why it really happened will probably be wide of the mark.

But speculation is very much the order of the day in viewing the shape of future Soviet-Egyptian relations. How close these have been since the 1956 Suez War is seen in the blanket coverage of all aspects of Egyptian life by the Soviet specialists.

Not only did Russian military advisers direct the operations of Soviet missiles, jet fighters, tanks and infantry weapons, but Russian economic and engineering specialists have dominated economic planning and the construction of major projects.

Everything Russian in Egypt is done on a record-breaking basis. The High Dam at Aswan opened in May, 1971 is Russia's largest single engineering achievement in the Third World. Until the James Bay power project in Quebec is complete, probably in 1980, the Aswan High Dam will remain the greatest single power project built by man.

OFFSHORE

The Soviet arms build-up in Egypt, begun in the late 1950s and completely refurbished after the disastrous losses of the Six-Day War in June, 1967, is the largest aggregation of Russian weapons outside the Soviet Union itself. Not even Russia's Eastern European Communist allies have received as much Russian military equipment over the years as Egypt. And Communist China, once a major recipient of aircraft and warships from Moscow, has been off the arms list since the Sino-Soviet rift of the early 1960s.

One bit of speculation has it that President Anwar Sadat, glutted with Soviet weapons, wanted even more Soviet advice on the operation of the latest SAM-3 missiles, in preparation for another war against Israel which Sadat has promised will take place.

Moscow, engaged in peaceful power politics with Washington and wary of being the cause of any new war at the present time, probably refused to cooperate. Sadat, with the most modern Soviet army in the world outside the U.S.S.R., probably imagines he can do without the Russians at this point and that the Egyptian military is well-enough trained at last to win against Israel next time.

Only the 20,000 military advisers have gone. An even larger force of Soviet engineers and technicians are staying, integrated into Cairo's government agencies.

Israel will probably be more worried about Egypt's intentions with the Russians gone, than before, since Sadat is determined to win back Egypt's lost lands and defeat Israel for the first time.

Even with the understandable Israeli confidence that they can always beat Egypt, the firepower left behind by the Russians is huge. And the Egyptians are determined they will not be crushed on the battlefield again.

B.C.'s Labor Strife Relies On Standard Cuts And Thrusts

VICTORIA (CP) — During a year when numerous labor contracts expire, the British Columbia tag team of labor, management and government, can be relied upon to get themselves into some curious, albeit exciting, matches.

But despite an occasional new twist, there are always the standard thrusts and counter-thrusts and these apparent re-runs cast some doubt on the effectiveness of both government labor legislation and labor-management bargaining machinery.

The province-wide construction strike-lockout is a case in point with the contractors locking out 18 in April following selective strikes and then, six weeks later, the government ordering an end to the tie-up with its controversial back-to-work legislation.

It was the same scenario in 1970, another turbulent year, when about 35,000 construction workers were idle. The government stepped in and ordered the men back without contracts and, like this year, the unions that had not yet reached settlements refused to do so.

In 1970, when it became apparent the unions really would not go back to work and submit to binding settlements under the Mediation Commission Act, the government agreed to suspend the compulsory legislation if the men would return to work and a third-party mediator would sit in on renewed negotiations.

The men went back to work on their old contracts while talks began, but this year members of seven construction unions out of the 18 involved—the remainder reached settlements prior to the back-to-work order—said: "No contract, no work."

LOCALS CHARGED

Charges were laid under the act against a number of union locals, alleging violation of the back-to-work order. RCMP raided various union offices to obtain evidence but the courts have since quashed the search warrants, saying there was not sufficient grounds.

This week, more than a month after the back-to-work order was issued, supposedly in the public interest, the holdout unions were still not back on the job but were bargaining with the Construction Labor Relations Association, which represents the contractors.

To further complicate things, the three-man mediation commission brought in its binding settlement Monday for the seven unions. It will go into effect if there is no independent settlement reached soon by the unions.

Since the unions have refused to accept the commission's decision, if no agreement is reached between the unions and CLRA, there could be a confrontation of the B.C. labor movement with the provincial government over the whole idea of binding settlements.

But clearly the legislation this year as in 1970 was not effective in bringing a quick end to the construction dispute which had a damaging effect on the provincial economy both years. In 1970 the problem was solved by a return to the bargaining table and it appears that will be the ultimate solution this year.

PRASED NEW LAW

When attorney-general Leslie Peterson, who was then also labor minister, introduced the B.C. Mediation Commission Act in 1968 he heralded it as "the most advanced labor legislation in Canada" and said it would "put industrial relations in the province on a firmer basis."

That it has failed to do this is evidenced by the government's actions in shying away from full implementation of the act in most serious disputes and in the condemnation levelled at the three-man mediation commission by both labor and management.

If negotiations break down between the seven unions and CLRA the B.C. Federation of Labor says it will be ready for a collision with the government on the legislation, presumably involving all its 155,000 members.

Labor minister James Chabot, appointed to the portfolio in April, 1971, stands by the act as "more effective than any other form of legislation."

He said in a recent interview the only reason it hasn't brought an end to the construction dispute is that the B.C. Federation of Labor is urging the seven holdout unions to defy the government.

SAYS WORKERS WILLING

"We have to assume when we use this legislation that we are taking reasonable measures and dealing with reasonable people," he said.

He repeated a statement he has made before that he has received "hundreds" of letters from members of the seven construction unions still not back to work stating they would like to return but are being badgered by their union officials to remain off the job until they have contracts.

Asked if the B.C. government would like to make the labor legislation stronger or alter it in any way, Mr. Chabot said only that the social credit administration "is always reviewing its legislation."

Dr. Noel Hall of the University of B.C., who has served as a mediator in many labor disputes, the latest being the national strike of Canada's air controllers, has been quoted as saying that "if banning strikes is not the answer then neither is legislation which relies on compulsory arbitration for every dispute."

"The real problem with both methods is that they come dangerously close to a system of compulsory employment."

Dr. Hall suggested a new system should be worked out not by government alone but with the help of management and labor so both sides can be counted on to help make it work.

Science Policy Of Great Import

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Financial Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Decisions taken on science policy will have a lot to do with Canada's growth and prosperity in the 1970s and later decades. They will affect the range of capital investment in industries employing advanced technology. They will affect the opportunities Canada provides for employment of highly trained people.

A lot of heavy thinking is being done on the subject, inside government, in Parliament, in industry and in the investment community. Government has recently created a department of state for science and technology to co-ordinate, subsidize and direct research activities and to finance them.

Debates have developed on how that department should proceed and to what extent government should attempt to set the goals and direct the efforts of the scientists it is now committed to employ and support.

SUGGESTION MADE

A special committee of the Senate studied the problem and came up with the suggestion that the government devote definite proportions of Gross National Product to research and development. It said that by 1980 that contribution should be 2.5 per cent, and that of the resulting research effort 10 per cent should be devoted to basic or theoretical research, the rest to practical studies.

Another prestigious body, the Science Council of Canada, disagrees with any arbitrary commitment of specific funds to scientific research. It sees no reason for declaring a specific portion should go to research and development — the practical as against the theoretical.

It says funds should be granted for research, program by program, in the face of competition from other activities and on the basis of the merits of each project.

A layman, even a technologically-minded layman, would have some difficulty understanding the argument between these prestigious bodies. The cabinet, however, as it proceeds to allocate public funds will have to make a choice.

GROUPS AGREE

Both groups agree the government should devote increasing amounts of public money to research in general. The Senate suggests a rationing scheme to allocate a specific proportion of Gross National Product. The council favors allocation in terms of benefits expected from specific programs.

It thinks the Senate committee was unduly concerned with manufacturing, hitherto a large beneficiary of government-supported research. It thinks the time has come for research in the field of service industries, large employers of labor, rather than to manufacturing, which in advanced economies employs a diminishing proportion of the work force.

The points raised in the debate are practical. They are far from academic. Research is costly and, in a country such as Canada, the main source of funds has to be government. That means government plays a major role in deciding what research is to be done and for what purpose. From here on the decision-making process will be concentrated in a single department of government science and technology.

Judge Voices Protest Of Our Parole System

Provincial court judge David Moffett of Victoria, in sentencing a man to 12 years for offences committed while on parole, has added his voice to the rising chorus protesting the manner in which parole is functioning in Canada.

He criticized authorities for releasing an inmate known to be an habitual offender and declared the 'policy should and must be changed.'

The prisoner's record, basically convictions for fraud, gave the judge reason for comment. He is by no means alone in his attitude—and significantly that attitude is shared by a number of men in his position.

They indicate quite clearly that, under present methods of operation, the system is not giving the public the protection it is entitled to.

With the amount of complaints increasing across Canada it becomes imperative to determine whether the system itself is ineffective or if the fault lies only in the manner in which it is applied.

For a number of reasons, parole is a desirable method of treating suitable offenders. It is materially less costly than imprisonment. It permits the person who has made a mistake, is capable of reformation and is determined to avoid trouble in the future, to progress more rapidly toward rehabilitation. On parole he can hold a job, which may support himself and his dependents in whole or in part, and he may participate in normal, law-abiding activity.

But it can be useful economically and socially only if it works. For some inmates, the prospect of it working is negligible. Obviously they are the ones who should not receive parole. Just as obviously, a number of them are being released to the detriment not only of society but to the parole policy itself.

On each occasion that a paroled person violates terms of his release and victimizes the public by a return to crime, the whole system is injured. This is the situation which the responsible authorities must recognize fully, unless they are prepared to see one of the more advanced and constructive treatments of certain offenders so heavily criticized that the system is finally abandoned under public pressure.

At the best of times, parole is a calculated risk. In too many recent instances that calculation has been inaccurate and inept to the point of absolute failure.

Those best informed on the question say that insufficient skilled staff is available to handle the volume of applications and recommendations for parole that are emerging at this time. The screening is too loose and the case loads on those engaged to carry out the work are too heavy.

Under these circumstances, two options seem open. Either more staff with adequate skills must be hired, or the number of those conditionally released must be drastically reduced so that available resources can process and handle them. This is by no means a callous attitude toward what is considered to be one of the most promising methods of rehabilitating the offender. It is a common sense approach to a problem which must be solved if the whole system is to be maintained. The accent is on rehabilitation, as it should be, but not to the extent where society lacks adequate protection and, too frequently victimized, reverts in anger to harsher penal policies which have failed in the past.

Amendments Overdue

(Penticton Herald)

Amendments to the Criminal Code of Canada which went into effect last week are generally progressive, and will tidy up some of the provisions of the code to bring them in line with the requirements of society.

One provision, however, is retrogressive and contradicts the main aims of codified law, open courts and maintenance of judicial records.

One of the new provisions allows a judge the discretion to release a person unconditionally even though he may be guilty, as a means of getting around the need to list a criminal offence on the person's record.

Such a provision appears to be a tacit admission that the code contains articles which may not stand up under serious scrutiny as criminal acts. In any case a person is either guilty or he is not, and his name is either cleared or marked on the court record.

The judicial system depends on complete records and open dispensation of justice in public courts. For a judge to dismiss unconditionally a person would almost certainly lead to in camera sessions away from public view.

It is conceivable that such a situation might return years later to haunt the accused person. The absence of a record might face him with the unhappy prospect of being unable to clear his name.

Many of the amendments are welcome and long overdue. Abolition of attempted suicide, on the grounds that people who attempt to take their own lives need help not punishment, and abolition of the lash are two notable improvements in the code.

One innovation which has distinct possibilities under certain circumstances is the provision for persons sentenced to jail for 90 days or less to make up the time on weekends and holidays.

It is good to see, too, in these times when peace officers are under increasing attack that penalties have been stiffened for obstructing or assaulting policemen.

There are many other changes which will have a modernizing effect on the law, a fact which proves to Canadians that the law can continue its evolutionary process to keep pace with changing times.

Maritime Acadians Preserve Identity

By BOB BOWMAN

There has been some controversy in recent years about the province of Quebec and Acadians in the Maritimes getting cultural assistance from France. Some people hope that this will lead to more unity between the French in Quebec and the Acadians.

The Acadians have remained aloof from Quebec for many years in order to retain their identity. There are only 200,000 Acadians in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island compared with about five million French-speaking people in Quebec.

There is practically no association with 200,000 Acadians in the New England states, and 500,000 Acadian descendants in Louisiana who are known as "Cajuns."

An effort was made to achieve more co-operation between Quebec and the Maritimes Acadians July 21, 1981, when there was a convention held at Memramcook, N.B., under the chairmanship of P. A. Landry, a member of the New Brunswick legislature.

It was the first Acadian convention ever held and distinguished guests from Quebec included Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Hector Langevin. Laurier was just rising to prominence and had not yet become leader of the federal Liberal party.

A strong plea for union of the French-speaking people of Canada was made by J. C. Rheume, editor of La Presse of Montreal, but was resisted by the Acadians who were proud of their separate development.

In recent years an Acadian was elected premier of New Brunswick, Louis J. Robichaud, leading the Liberals, won the provincial election July 12, 1960. Ironically it was the day usually celebrated by the Orange Order.

BIBLE BRIEF

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal." Matthew 6:19.

"The Lord knew of man's tendency to be selfish and tight, so he gave this reminder and admonition for all to see. Money in itself can make people mean and miserable. Only as it is used to bring help and hope to others, does it become an instrument of happiness. For your good and God's glory, use it wisely today for His cause, knowing that you cannot out-give the Lord. Jesus said, 'give and it shall be given unto you.'"

Touchy Egos Of Spassky, Fischer Nothing On Old Icelandic Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The insulted egos and white-knuckled tensions before the Fischer-Spassky chess match may seem to be a blazing battle, but pale beside the tales of blood-thirsty games in medieval Iceland.

Chess boards in the 12th and 13th centuries often were the centre of treachery, revenge, intrigue and murder, according to sagas of the time.

Games often were interrupted because somebody was getting lured to pieces.

When a certain King Louis lost a chess game to Rognvald, he stood up in a fury, shoved his chessmen into a bag and smashed his opponent in the face with it, leaving him a bloody mess.

"Take that," exclaimed the king.

CLOBBERED KING

Rognvald rode off in a panic. But his brother stayed to split the king's skull wide open.

These stories are sagas from Willard Fiske's Chess in Iceland and in Icelandic Literature, published in 1965.

It is said that American chess champion Bobby Fischer has got the highest stakes in the history of chess for his series beginning Tuesday in Reykjavik with Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union, the world champion.

Even though thousands of dollars of prize money are on the line, today's championship prize is chicken feed.

Rognvald played King Louis for his head.

A woman was the prize in one knightly saga. A king put up his horse, falcon and sword for a maiden and engaged in a game, whoever takes all. The king lost. He left the game on foot, unarmed and unloved.

"Little consolation do you derive from the game of chess for now I own your costly objects!" said his competitor.

COULD TAKE LESSON

Talk about concentration. Today, Fischer feels the glare of the elaborate chess table in Reykjavik may be too bright. It may distract him. Fischer could take a lesson from King Valdemar, in the year 1157.

The king concentrated so hard on his chess game that when Canute V gave him a big kiss, he didn't even look up from the board.

It took a troop of enemy soldiers rushing into the room to get his attention. The king jumped up to fight. He fell with a wounded thigh. But his men covered him with their bodies for protection. They were chopped to bits, and the king escaped. The game never was finished.

Concentration could have been the downfall of Erle Plovpenning, a wise ruler, it is said. He was lured to the chess table by his black-hearted brother in the summer of 1250. The brother abused Erle as he sat playing chess, and Erle was killed that very night.

"Poor king! Little did he merit so cruel a checkmate!" was the comment from Fiske.

B.C. Agrees Subsidized Homes Good For Low Income Families

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bill Cross would like to see low-income families given the opportunity to live in subsidized housing spread throughout a city, rather than in monolithic public projects, and it appears the British Columbia government agrees with him.

Dan Campbell, the province's municipal affairs minister, recently announced approval for construction of 300 low-rental homes that would take the form of single-family homes and condominiums.

However, the government has said it won't share in the construction costs of projects like Vancouver's Raymur Place, a massive apartment development for low-income families.

Mr. Campbell's announcement of the new plan for low-cost housing was welcomed by the B.C. housing inter-project council, which represents tenants in B.C.'s low-income projects.

Look Ma, a no-hands mirror

For bathrooms or boudoirs lacking in "hindsight" — that is a three-way mirror so you can fix the back of your hair with both hands, free — the ideal alternative has just arrived at Long Super Drugs, Downtown and Shops Capri.

Described as a "no hands" mirror, it's a double-sided looking glass (magnifying on one side), 6 1/2 inches in diameter and attached to a hinged bracket that will extend up to 36 inches from the wall.

Mounted above or beside any bathroom wall mirror, it can be adjusted to any position for viewing the back, sides or top of your head. Or you can flip it to the magnifier side and bring it as close as you like to apply eye make-up or contact lenses.

As well as tilting within its own frame, the mirror hangs from the bracket in a swivel socket to provide even more viewing angles.

And the bracket also swivels from the point where it's attached to the wall and has another hinge in the centre of its length. So you can raise or lower the mirror height, as well as moving it to right or left. And when it's not in use, you can fold it up flat against the wall above or swing it over to one side out of the way.

The bracket and frame are that very durable type of plastic known as high-impact styrene (like your telephone) and the color choices include white, blue, yellow, avocado or hot pink.

Imported from California it comes packaged in several parts in a moulded styrofoam tray. Which makes it ideal for mailing safely if you want to send one away as a gift but might alarm you at first sight because of the various pieces to be assembled.

Any woman, however, can put this thing together easily. The toughest part is putting in the two screws that hold it to the wall. Incidentally, the wall can be plaster, wood or plasterboard. And I should add that, if by some mischance the mirror should ever crack or break, it can be replaced for about $2 because it's a standard model. The plastic in the bracket part is the resilient type that's unlikely to crack or snap.

If you are interested in seeing this "no hands" mirror for yourself, it's at Long Super Drugs, Downtown and Shops Capri in Kelowna.

Recipe Tips For The Diabetic

Fresh fruits are canned by the hot water pack method into sterile jars. Artificial sweeteners may be used if desired—sugar and honey are not artificial sweeteners—don't use them. When sealed, these fruits will keep well for a year or so, if stored in a cool place. To freeze fruits just wash, blanch if necessary, add artificial sweetener if desired, and freeze in air-tight bags, containers, etc. Jam making is a challenge and is fun. Experimentation is the key word. Combine different varieties of fruits—one really ripe, one a little on the green side for best results (lemons are readily available in a pinch). No sweetener is required if you use really ripe fruit and a touch of lemon. It has been found that doubling the amount of powdered pectin works well. If your jam is rubbery—you've used too much. Freeze all jam as it keeps for a longer length of time (up to eight months). Above all don't make too large a quantity as it does not keep as well on the refrigerator shelf as the ordinary type of jam.

A tip for the hostess—salads (with dressing served separately), meat, fresh fruit and vegetables are standard requirements for your diabetic guest. Let him feel at home, don't fuss, and you'll all enjoy the visit.

CLOVED STARRED PEACHES

1 medium peach, cut in half
2 tps. vinegar
Cinnamon
Whole cloves

Dot peach halves with cloves. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Pour vinegar over each half and broil until slightly brown. This recipe is equal to one portion of fruit (1 Fruit Exchange).

FRUIT CUP

Fruit Cup may be made from a mixture of fresh fruit 1 season, or from leftovers of canned "diabetic fruit."

One half cup Fruit Cup equals 1/2 cup 10 per cent fruit (1 Fruit Exchange).

Maybe you would like to add some sweetening to the Fruit Cup. If so, you could dissolve 1/4 grain saccharin in as much water as you think you need, then pour this mixture over the fruit. Chill.

A drop or two of almond extract added to the liquid often improves the flavor.

14-YEAR-OLD Baffles Doctors

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The more the doctors study Sergio Pacheco, the more baffled they are. Why did the 14-year-old youngster stop growing at the age of three?

Dr. David Chadwick, who heads a team of researchers on the case, says: "I'm afraid our research so far has raised more questions than it has answered."

The dark-eyed Mexican boy was born in a hotel on the southern fringes of Tijuana. He grew normally for three years. Since then, he and his family say his normally-proportioned body has changed only a fraction of an inch.

Doctors say he is 33 inches tall, weighs less than 40 pounds and actively competes in sports.

Sergio, a sophomore who does well in high school, gets along with his brothers and sisters, whose growth has been normal, and with his friends.

A campaign in San Diego has raised $1,000 to finance the research tests which Chadwick, a specialist at Children's Hospital, said have turned up "nothing to explain adequately his physical problems."

ANN LANDERS

Compassion For Mate Better Than Self Pity

Dear Ann Landers: Five years ago we learned that my wife has multiple sclerosis. She managed well until recently. She is becoming severely incapacitated and I know she is depressed. Someone told me that you printed a wonderful letter a few years ago from a man whose wife had M.S. Will you print it again? I need help.—St. Petersburg.

Dear St. Petersburg: That letter appeared in 1966. It would mean little without the original letter so I am printing both.

Dear Ann: For 25 years I have been married to a woman who has multiple sclerosis. If I held an 8-to-5 job I could have a fairly easy life, but I would need to hire a companion for my wife. Instead, I have arranged to be close by and yet not a handmaiden to her. I own and operate a summer camp for boys. In the winter I run a ski lodge.

I'm an active, fun-loving 47. I enjoy mountain climbing, skiing, horseback riding, camping and fishing. I'm becoming frustrated because of what I am missing. I'd give anything to put my arms around a woman and feel the response of her arms around me. I want to walk into a dining room with a woman at my side. I want to dance and swim and hike with a woman who shares my love of nature. I ache for the companionship of a female who can do something with me besides sit.

Is it possible to share such pleasures with another woman without becoming emotionally involved? I doubt it. What's the alternative? What about others who are married to crippled mates? Can you give us some realistic advice?—Signature Willheld On Request.

Dear Friend: It would be easy to respond with pious platitudes but your frankness and honesty deserve better.

Frequently, when I lack the knowledge or experience to advise a reader I call on an expert. The expert I have called on today is a Chicago colleague.

Shower Honors July Bride

A surprise miscellaneous shower at the St. Andrew's Drive residence of Mrs. H. E. Metke honored Vicky Gibb, whose marriage to Richard Hollins was a recent event.

Guests numbered 25 and after the guest of honor arrived, corsages were presented to her and to her mother, Mrs. James Gibb; her great aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Gibb Sr., and to Mrs. Dot Wood, aunt of the groom.

The spacious recreation room was appropriately decorated with fancy umbrellas, wedding bells and streamers. Fun games were enjoyed by all those present, followed by the unwrapping of the many intriguing gifts. The honored guest fashioned a becoming hat with ribbons and bows.

The evening concluded with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Metke, Mrs. R. V. Hubbard and Gertrude Webster.

Engagements Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Earle of Williams Lake announce the engagement of their oldest son Richard Harold, of Kelowna, to Sally-Lou Loretta Simpson of Owen Sound, Ont. The wedding will take place Sept. 2 in St. Michael and All Angels' Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gorregesen of Calgary announce the engagement of their daughter Sylvia Doris to Thomas Allan Dempsey of Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Dempsey of Kelowna. The wedding will take place Aug. 5 in St. Mathew Lutheran Church, Calgary.

Slowup In Fishing

By JIM TREADGOLD

Fishing in general has slowed down to what it was a few weeks ago. Reports from most lakes indicate this and it is expected at this time of summer.

Okanagan Lake is keeping much about the same with good catches of Kokanee and a few trout, mostly in the smaller sizes.

At Beaver Lake and Crooked Lake reports are that fishing is slow. A few fish are being taken on the trolled spinner and worm and on the small Dick nite wobbler. The fluorescent red Carey fly is also accounting for a few fish. There has been a lot of north wind of late and this always has a detrimental effect on the fishing. Don't ask me why, but for years I have always been disappointed in getting to a lake and to find the wind coming from the north. A south wind to me is just the opposite as my best luck at fishing is when the wind is from the south.

The report from the White Mountain Camp in the McCulloch area is that the camp is open though operating under difficulty because of the reservoir improvements taking place. In the area, Don Tinker, manager of the camp, has been transporting fishermen and boats into Browne and Haynes Lakes by truck, where fishing has been good. This service will be available till the end of August. Roads into the area are few and slowly but are in fair condition. One report out of Minnow Lake of bottom fishing with worms is producing some nice sized trout.

Postill Lake has been good in the evenings on the Royal Coachman Baitfly and on bright fluorescent flies. The catches on Twinn Lakes are better with trout to two pounds. Herron catches are good with trout from 1 1/2 to 2 pounds. Three parties took limit catches on South Lake of trout 12 to 14 inches in length.

Even Penmask Lake has been slower with limit catches often taking all day. The best fly here has been the Doc Spratley trolled, but not too deep.

Reports are fair from Hatheume Lake even though the water is a little murky from pollen. The new public access road to Hatheume is being constructed at this time. Logger Montie Philpott is bulldozing a narrow but good road into the lake and will be there by about Friday of this week. The right of way is being cleared of the small timber and the road will be used to skid the small and larger timbers out on the right-of-way. The road will be widened and smoothed up after the timber has been taken off. All necessary culverts are in place. The Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club has organized this project and help is being received from the Fish and Wildlife Branch in the hiring of two university students to help clear the right-of-way and in putting in a new campsite and boat launching area on the southeast side of the lake. The project should be completed by the middle of August. A small bridge on this new road over a tributary to the Nicola River has to be put in this Sunday morning and any volunteer help would be appreciated. A half day should do the job with a dozen men. This bridge will cut out all the bad road to Hatheume and it will be in cars will have no difficulty getting in as the very bad part of the road will be bypassed by a short connector road and the bridge. I and the club would appreciate a phone call from anyone who can give a hand.

Jimmy and Pratt lakes out of Westwood have been bright spots this past week with some very good reports. Flies are accounting for the best fish and a new fly designed and made by Hans Hansen who is a very keen angler and student of fishing habits is getting the best results by far. The fly is known as the Hansen Nymph, and is trolled or mooched at various depths, depending on the time and the day.

Jim Patterson reports fair luck at Lassie Lake out of Carmi. Shuswap Lake reports are slow and the water is still very high. No reports of the spring salmon run in the Shuswap River as yet.

I am told the Fishing Derby held last weekend on several lakes in the Kamloops area attracted so many fishermen to the designated lakes that it was hard to get room to manoeuvre a boat, let alone fish.

I have had several reports of late of persons taking boats that are locked up on the small mountain lakes. The locks or chains are broken, in some cases the chains are chopped out of the boat and at times the boats are just left to drift around after they are used. Such practices certainly are lespicable and are not done by sportsmen, but persons who have no regard for private property. Such incidents should be reported if seen and it would be a good idea if anyone caught doing such damage should lose their fishing licence for a few years. A parallel act of similar stupidity is going on a little by nuts who shoot up machinery and equipment left in the bush by loggers. Anyone caught doing such a thing should not be allowed to carry a gun again. These things are happening and it's up to all of us to help stamp out such practices.

The Game Regulations for '72-73 are out and copies are available. The regulations are printed in a completely new format and I believe will be a little easier to understand. Get a copy and read it all well. The hunting season opens as follows in our area:

Mule and Whitetail Bucks, GMA No. 5-8, Sept. 2nd; mule and white tail bucks, GMA No. 6-7, Sept. 16th (with a portion of 7 opening on Sept. 2).

There again is a split season on deer in GMA No. 8, with whitetail antlerless opening on Nov. 18 to Dec. 3. Whitetail antlerless in 5-6-7 Oct. 28 to Nov. 5. Bull moose, MA No. 5-6-7-8, Sept. 16 - Nov. 15. Moose antlerless MA No. 6-7, Nov. 11-15. Elk bull and antlerless, MA No. 6, Sept. 16-Dec. 3. Elk bull only, MA No. 7, Sept. 16-Oct. 29. There is an open season in MAs No. 5-6-7-8 on antlerless mule deer (away past time).

Black bear (spring bear hunt) MAs 6-7-8, April 1 to Aug. 31. Black bear, MA No. 6, Sept. 2-Dec. 31. Black bear, MA No. 5-7-8, Sept. 1-Dec. 31. Grizzly, MA No. 5-8, Sept. 2-Dec. 31. Cougar, MA, 5-6-7-8, April 1-March 31, limit 1 only.

The limit on deer both mule and whitetail is two—one of which may be antlerless in those areas provided with antlerless season. This is almost a province-wide regulation (and about time) on the Island and Charlottes the limit is three and no limit respectively.

Grouse—MA 5-8, Sept. 2-Dec. 3; MA 6-7 Sept. 16-Dec. 3. Daily limit—only five of each species and 10 in the aggregate. (This is about time also.)

Cock Pheasant—5-6-7-8, Oct. 7-Nov. 19.

In summing up the regulations I would say that the Sept. 2 opening for deer in some of our area is too early. I am pleased to see the big limits on deer and grouse cut back. They should have been cut back long ago but better late than never or too late. I am very pleased to see that there are no antlerless mule deer seasons in GMAs No. 5-6-7-8 and that the antlerless moose season is very short.

I do not care for the split mule deer seasons in GMA No. 8. It means far more hunting pressure on deer in No. 5-6-7 when mules will be closed in No. 8 on Oct. 23 to Nov. 17.

I also think the 3/4 curl and 7/8 curl on mountain sheep rather odd. These two amounts of curl are regulations in various GMA areas and it looks like one will have to cull the horns before taking the trophy to be sure of being within the law.

Cougar is down to a limit of one which will not please the cougar hunter who has to keep dogs all year round to take part in this sport. I doubt if the small limit is necessary. There is also a limit of one on wolverine and lynx and to me these animals should stay as fur bearers and not be taken by hunters.

Of interest is the statement in the regulations that the Wildlife Branch may in 1973 replace the non-resident trophy fees with special non-resident big game tag licenses. This could be a very good idea providing the cost of the tags is kept at least the same as the present trophy fees. Our game is all going to be needed in the not too distant future for the residents of the province only.

The migratory bird seasons are printed in the B.C. regulations this year again after several years of being left out. This is a good move and one that will help the migratory bird hunter.

Good hunting and fishing.

IN QUEST OF OLYMPIC TEAM BERTHS

Olympic team trials Saturday and Sunday. Brock, a member of last year's team to the Pan-American Games, will compete in the 400 metre, 100 metre hurdles and 1,600 metre relay events while Kathy will try to nail down a place on the team in the shotput event.

They travel on to meet the Quebec team in a dual event next week following the Olympic trials. (Courier Photo)

Four Teams Remain Undefeated Kelowna All-Stars In Contention

Four teams remained undefeated, led by defending provincial champion Trail, and three others were eliminated in the second day of action in the Kelowna All-Stars provincial championships at Elks' Stadium Thursday.

Trail moved into the tourney lead with two straight wins, as they trimmed Nanaimo 6-2 to hand the Nanaimo squad their first loss of the double knockout in their opening game.

Kelowna All-Stars staged off elimination and sent South Okanagan to the sidelines with a 5-2 win. All-Stars dropped their first decision, 5-1 to Lake Cowichan Wednesday.

Lake Cowichan joins North Vancouver and Courtenay with 1-0 records, while South Okanagan was accompanied by North Okanagan and Port Alberni to the sidelines.

North Vancouver waxed Victoria 8-1 in the opening game Thursday, with other scores during the day North Okanagan 7-2 over Port Alberni and Victoria a 10-0 waxing of North Okanagan as one team faced elimination in three of the games.

All-Stars had their troubles against South Okanagan, taking 10, while his teammates clobbered seven hits off loser Glen Campbell.

Dave Eadie slammed a grand slam with two out in the top of the fifth inning to move North Vancouver into a 5-0 lead and Brian Noga stroked a two-run homer, also with two out, in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

Port Alberni ran into the hot pitching of North Okanagan's Ross McKenzie, with a two-hitter, to become the first team eliminated. Port Alberni scored both their runs and got both their hits in the final inning.

They used three pitchers in an attempt to stem the North Okanagan 10-hit plate attack, with starter Don Wiebe taking the loss. Jack Mercer took over in the fifth inning and Barry Waugh took the mound in the sixth.

Ed Johnstone added the finishing touches on the win for North Okanagan with a lead-off home run in the top of the seventh inning.

North Okanagan had just as much trouble with Victoria, going through four pitchers in a futile attempt. Tom Craig and Bob Munn slammed two-run homers for Victoria, each keying an uprising as they scored five runs in the second and third innings.

Bob Cool took the win for Victoria, with relief help from Wayne Krimmer. North Okanagan could manage only one hit off the Victoria pitchers. Glen Kashuba took the mound loss, with help from Ron Matheson, Ross McKenzie and Rob Fraser.

Kelowna met Nanaimo in an 11 a.m. encounter, with the loser being sidelined. At 1 p.m. Courtenay met North Vancouver while Trail went against Lake Cowichan at 3 p.m. Teams playing in games at 5 and 8 p.m. will be decided by earlier results.

Home runs proved to be the difference between North Vancouver and Victoria, as two of their seven hits went the distance. Doug Turk limited Victoria to three hits, striking out

A four-run outburst in the bottom of the fifth inning snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Trail their second win. Keith Vanderkeere went the distance for the win, allowing four hits.

Loser Alan Hill, and reliever Brent Longden, combined to give up five hits for Nanaimo. Kevin Oliver rapped two singles to pace Trail while Jim Luck had a pair of singles in a losing effort.

Seeded Players Win Handily In Tennis Championships

Top-seeded Les Solley of Vancouver met and easily dispatched his first opponent in the B.C. Interior Tennis Championships at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club tennis grounds.

The five-day meet, in its second day, featured top brand of competition and Solley showed why he first seeded by taking an easy 6-1, 6-3 win over Vancouver's T. Wilson.

Other top seeded players also won their matches, but one of them had a bit of trouble. Third-seeded Cam Dalglish of Vancouver defeated Hans Doerg of Vancouver 6-3, 6-4 in the only close match involving seeded players in single men's events.

Second-seeded Lindsay Straney of Calgary whipped F. Cost of Vancouver 6-0, 6-1 in his match.

F. Kruger of Vancouver lost the hard way to P. Kent of Vancouver, losing the first set 6-0 and being injured on the second to lose by default.

Three of the remaining six matches went three sets. T. Stubb of Vancouver beat G. Burke of Vancouver 6-4, 3-6 and 6-1 while Dave Cox beat Bill Borlee of Penticton 6-3, 3-6, 6-1. The closest match of the day put Roland Schwarz of Penticton against Vancouver's G. Smith. Schwarz won the first set 6-4, lost the second 5-6 and took the deciding set 6-3.

John Webe of Vancouver defeated Ted Woodland of Vancouver 6-1, 6-5. K. Oston got past John Johnson 6-3, 6-2 and Jim Palmer defeated L. Stiles 6-4, 6-3 in other men's singles matches.

The three top seeded players in ladies' singles handily won their games, with top-seeded Donna Faye Madhosingh of Vancouver sweeping past Ann Fall 6-0, 6-1. Second-seeded Lindsay Rogers of Vancouver had just as easy a time with Donna Hart of Vancouver, winning by the same score.

Marion Munro of Vancouver, third seeded, defeated Cathy Stiles 6-4, 6-1. Kamloops' Irene Will edged Jan Soper of Vancouver 6-4, 6-1 and Nora Rose of Vancouver defeated Kelowna's Dorinka Soldat 6-3, 0-6, 6-3 in other women's single matches.

Rovers Win Playoff Opener With Decision Over Willows

The adage "give them a foot and they'll take a mile," could be adapted to Rutland Rovers with a few adaptations.

Rovers made the most of their chances and turned them into a 3-1 win over Willow Inn Willows Thursday and a one game lead in their best-of-seven Kelowna and District Senior Men's Softball League semifinal playoff action.

Budget Boys, who lost to Rovers in a special playoff game to decide the pennant champions, will meet Treadgold's Club 13 in the first game of their seven game tilt Sunday at 8 p.m. at King's Stadium.

Ken Hehn, who posted a 5-2 record in league play, picked up the win. Hehn allowed six hits, striking out three batters and walking two. Arnie Rath took over after Hehn walked the lead off batter in the seventh and, after giving up a single, retired the side to end the game.

One out later Joe Uyeyma reached first on a hard infield hit. Both runners advanced on a passed ball, putting them in scoring position for Kroschinsky, who slammed a single to centre to push both of them across the plate.

Kroschinsky moved to second on the late throw to the plate, and took third when brother Don stroked an infield single. Dave was caught between third and home on a ground out, but scored when Willows' first baseman John Chadwick threw to third.

That was all the scoring Rovers needed, as Hehn kept Willows under wraps until the fifth frame. Yeast started the rally for Willows with a single, and two outs later Jim Elko slammed a double to left field to score him with the only Willow tally.

Willows threatened in the top of the seventh, but were unable to score. Pinch-hitter Gene Knorr drew a one-out walk, signalling the removal of Hehn. Ken Weninger slapped a single up the middle off of reliever Rath to become the potential tying run but Rath got the next two batters to pop up harmlessly to preserve the win.

Sehn Wins Loop Triple Crown With Clear Batting Dominance

Budget Boys' Ed Sehn made the Kelowna and District Senior Men's B Softball League his private hitting preserve, and was able to hold off any threats to that title to win the batting triple crown.

Sehn wasn't threatened in the latter part of the season, after shaking off a determined Don Kroschinsky of the Rutland Rovers. He finished with a .446 batting average on 33 hits in 74 tries.

Kroschinsky, who at one time late in the season was close to the .400 mark, dropped off a bit but ended the year with a sparkling .348 average on 24 hits in 69 official trips to the plate.

Sehn's other batting titles were as safe as his batting title, as he slammed nine home runs and had 28 runs batted in. Teammate Norbert Korthals, who ranked out of the top 10 with a .242 average, was runner-up in both departments, with five home runs and 17 runs batted in.

While Sehn dominated the league's batting awards, Rovers led the way in numbers of top hitters.

Only three batters topped the .300 mark, with Sehn and Kroschinsky two of them. The other was Rovers' Joe Uyeyma, who stroked 21 hits in 66 tries for a .318 average.

Next on the list, and just missing the .300 mark, was Rovers' hard-hitting Dave Kroschinsky, with 22 hits in 74 tries for a .293 batting average.

Boys led the loop in team batting average by a wide margin, with a .271 average down the line. Rovers were second with a .231 mark. Willow Inn Willows, last place finishers in the four team loop, combined for a .219 average while Treadgold's Club 13 proved to be the lightest hitting team with a .211 average.

Six pitchers in the league won more games than they lost, and all but one are on Boys or Rovers.

Rovers' Dick Beestelone led the loop in a close contest with Boys' Gib Loseth. Beestelone won seven of nine games for a .777 percentage, while Loseth's mark of 9-3 brought him a close second with a .750 record.

Ken Hehn of Rovers was the next most successful chucker, with five wins in seven games for a .714 percentage. The next three pitchers were just above the .500 mark, with Boys' Don Schmidt fourth with a 7-5 record, Rovers' Arnie Rath fifth with a 4-3 record and the only outsider, Club 13's Rick Kraushaar, next with six wins in 11 decisions.

Schmidt, one of only three pitchers to pitch 12 games, was strike out king with 84, to Loseth's 82. Club 13's Wally Sehn, with five wins against eight losses, was far back in third with 58 strike outs.

Sehn, in addition to his three titles, was second in two other batting departments. Sehn scored 17 runs, one behind Don Kroschinsky. Korthals led the loop in doubles, with six, while Sehn, Don Kroschinsky and Willows' Ken Weninger were tied for second with four apiece.

Don Kroschinsky also led the league in triples, with five, a clear margin of two over Boys' Richard Bullock.

Rovers' Tim Reiger proved speediest along the basepaths, as he led the way in stolen bases with eight. Weninger was close behind with seven thefts.

Tremblay Elusive Rearguard Stickhandles From NHL To WHA

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
J. C. Tremblay, always an elusive defenceman, has stickhandled his way out of the National Hockey League and created a second vacancy in the lineup that will represent Canada against the Russians in September.

The 33-year-old veteran of 12 seasons with Montreal Canadiens appeared at a news conference in Quebec City Thursday night and was unveiled as the latest recruit of the World Hockey Association. It was announced that he had signed a five-year contract with Quebec Nordiques.

Like Bobby Hull, who joined the WHA earlier as playing coach of Winnipeg Jets, Tremblay had been one of the 35 players invited to join Team Canada for the eight-game Russian series. But neither will be able to produce the signed NHL contract required to get him into the team's Toronto training camp Aug. 13.

In Moscow a few hours earlier, an agreement between Russian hockey officials and Team Canada representatives provided the Canadians with a pretty fair replacement for their missing defenceman.

The Russians, who had insisted that only 30 players could make the trip to the Soviet Union, agreed to a 31st, provided that Bobby Orr is the extra man. Boston Bruins' superstar is likely to miss the four earlier games in Canada while he recovers from knee surgery.

PROMISES APPEARANCE
In making the Moscow announcement, Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, director of the NHL Players' Association and Orr's legal adviser, promised that Bobby will get into the series "even if he has to play on one leg."

A Russian trip appeared the last thing on Tremblay's mind as he said the contract for an undisclosed sum with Quebec means "My future is assured."

General manager Sam Pollock of the Canadiens said Montreal still considers Tremblay a member of the club but did not elaborate.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL said the defenceman has automatically disqualified himself from Team Canada. The presence at the Nordiques' conference of Maurice Richard and Carol Vadnais created speculation.

The Nordiques have yet to announce appointment of a coach and the Rocket, presumably, is available. Vadnais, a former defenceman of Tremblay with the Canadiens, was roasted by the Boston fans last spring when he joined the Bruins from California Golden Seals.

NHL Only Clause Not On Paper Hockey Canada Official States

WINNIPEG (CP) — Chris Lang, secretary-treasurer of Hockey Canada, said Thursday there is no written agreement between Hockey Canada and the National Hockey League stipulating that Team Canada must be stocked with players who have signed NHL contracts.

Lang said in a telephone interview there is no written agreement with the NHL concerning the staffing of the team that is to play Russia in an eight-game series starting in September.

Lang said if there was such an agreement he would know of it.

"There is a great misunderstanding that the agreement is," Lang said from his Toronto home. "But then, nobody has asked if it was written or what."

He said most Canadians believed there was a written agreement between the two groups, but said this could have grown from invitations sent out to team members by coach Harry Sinden.

HULL ON LIST
When Sinden invited 35 players to attend training camp, Bobby Hull was on his list. However, the letters sent out stipulated that to participate in the camp all players must have signed their 1972-73 NHL contracts, making Hull ineligible.

Amis Stukus, general manager of Winnipeg Jets, the World Hockey Association club that lured Hull away from the NHL, said: "If there isn't a signed agreement then all of Canada has been fooled."

Telly Mercury, the Jets' legal counsel, said: "The public felt there was a binding, written agreement. But now that it's denied, there is no legal way Hockey Canada, the umbrella for hockey interests in Canada, should try to keep Hull out of the Canada-Russia series."

Boxer Hunter's Hopes Jolted

PORT WORTH, Tex. (CP) — Convict Bobby Lee Hunter's hopes of a place on the United States boxing team were jolted Thursday night when he lost his semi-final bout in the flyweight division of the Olympic trials.

The 22-year-old Hunter, serving the sixth year of a 20-year manslaughter term, won temporary freedom last summer to travel to the Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia, where he earned a bronze medal. But he lost a three-round decision Thursday to 17-year-old Tim Dement and has only one faint chance of still making it to Munich.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Harold Connolly, a 30-year-old California school teacher, set a world record for the full-size (16-pound) hammer throw 10 years ago today—in 1962—at Stanford, Calif. Though that mark of 231 feet 10 inches lasted three years, he was throwing "well over 233 feet" in 1965.

Baseball Week Being Plugged

OTTAWA (CP) — Baseball enthusiasts across Canada are working to make the coming week a big one for the amateur weiners and crackerjack crowd.

Support for Amateur Baseball Week, July 23-29, has been given by everyone from Prime Minister Trudeau to the Montreal Expos baseball club.

The week is aimed at stirring up local interest in the sport and boosting moral for Mosquito (10 and under) Beaver (12 and under) Bantam (14 and under) Midget (16 and under) Bison (18 and under) junior and senior amateur ball clubs that thrive in most Canadian towns and cities.

The Canadian Federation of Amateur Baseball co-ordinates the week's activities with the help of provincial baseball organizations. Jack G. Jordan, executive director of the federation, says a national contest to pick a slogan for the week—it was open to players 14 years old and under—did a good deal to involve young ball players.

Andre Villeneuve, 12, of Montreal, and Bruce Boyer, a 13-year-old Edmonton boy, won the contest and with it a week in Montreal, tickets to an Expos game and a guest-of-honor spot at the Canadian junior baseball championships in Pointe-aux-Trembles, Que.

Their slogans: "L'ami du baseball amateur est mon ami, c'est sûr" and "Clean fun for all boys."

Next at 68 was a quartet headed by threatening Arnold Palmer. Also at that figure were Mike Reasor, who caddied for Palmer in the 1966 U.S. Open, veteran R. H. Sikes and four rookie Martin Bohlen, a one time Las Vegas croupier.

Ron Cerrudo On Comeback

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ron Cerrudo, knocked out of action for eight months because of a back operation in 1970, was one stroke off the course record Thursday on the vast stretches of the demanding Firestone Country Club course as he took the first-round lead in the $150,000 American Golf Classic.

His five-under-par 65, including a bogey on his last hole, on the 7,188-yard par-70 layout gave him a one-stroke margin over veteran Kermit Zarley and former PGA champion Ray Floyd in the wilting, muggy heat that featured temperatures in the mid-90s with humidity to match.

Next at 68 was a quartet headed by threatening Arnold Palmer. Also at that figure were Mike Reasor, who caddied for Palmer in the 1966 U.S. Open, veteran R. H. Sikes and four rookie Martin Bohlen, a one time Las Vegas croupier.

Swedes Might Be First Opponents

MOSCOW (AP) — Team Canada officials headed for Stockholm today to discuss the possibility of playing two hockey games with a Swedish all-star team before taking on the Soviet Union in the final four games of the so-called "dream series."

Alan Eagleson, head of the Team Canada delegation, said the group would spend two days in Stockholm talking with Peo Western and other Swedish hockey officials. Western is president of the International Ice Hockey Federation's newly formed coach council.

Team Canada, a selection of Canada's top professional players, would like to play one or two games in Stockholm around Sept. 16 and 17, just before coming to Russia to play the Soviet national team in the second half of the eight-game series Sept. 22-28. The first four games are scheduled for Canada Sept. 2-8.

"We'd like to play two games in Sweden," Eagleson said in an interview, "because we'll need the practice. It's better we play them there than in Czechoslovakia because that's just too far to move the team."

There had been plans to play some games with the Czechoslovak national team in Prague before coming to Russia. But Eagleson said this was now only a "remote possibility" because "movement of the (Canadian) team would be very difficult."

"It depends on what happens in Sweden," he added.

BASEBALL TRADE

ARLINGTON (AP) — Texas Rangers sent veteran first baseman Don Mincher and utility infielder Ted Kubiak to Oakland A's Wednesday night in exchange for utilityman Orlando (Marty) Martinez, second baseman Vic Harris and a player to be named later.

'Home On The Range' Melody Sung By Detroit's Slayback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Slayback felt right at home on the range while making Texas Rangers feel downright uncomfortable at home.

"He pitched another great game, didn't he?" exclaimed Detroit Tiger manager Billy Martin after the 24-year-old rookie mastered the Rangers 5-1 with a five-hitter Thursday night.

Slayback, who only a couple of weeks ago was in the minor leagues, struck out 13 Rangers with an assortment of sliders and fastballs.

"Why did I strike out so many?" Slayback said. "It was just a matter of throwing a lot of good, two-strike pitches, mixed my pitches pretty well tonight."

Included in his performance were four strikeouts of Texas slugger Frank Howard, a giant who inspires awe in most veteran pitchers, no less rookies.

"I got him on breaking pitches," said the Tiger rookie. "All four teams, on breaking pitches. That's the first time I've ever faced him. He's so big, he scares you even when he's standing still."

RED SOX WIN TWO

In Thursday's other American League games, Boston Red Sox took a doubleheader from Oakland Athletics 2-1 and 4-3 in 11 innings; Milwaukee Brewers edged Minnesota Twins 2-1 and Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City Royals 8-5 in 10 innings. Rain washed out California at New York.

In the National League, Atlanta Braves defeated St. Louis

Cardinals 6-3 and New York Mets turned back Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1.

Slayback, who won his fourth game in seven decisions and lowered his earned-run average to 1.70, struck out the side in the first and the fifth innings and was in serious trouble only once when the Rangers scored their only run.

Marty Pattin pitched a four-hitter as Boston beat Oakland in the first game and Carl Yastrzemski forced in the winning run with a two-out, bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning to give the Red Sox the second game.

Joe Labaud collected three hits, including a run-scoring double in the fourth inning, and rookie Gary Ryerson scattered nine hits as Milwaukee edged Minnesota. Merv Rettenmund delivered a bases-loaded pinch single in the 10th inning to help Baltimore trim Kansas City.

Earl Williams smashed a two-run homer and Ralph Garr drilled a two-run double to power Atlanta over St. Louis. Williams' homer, No. 15, sailed over the centre field fence after Hank Aaron had singled.

Willie Mays slugged a tie-breaking double in the fifth inning, carrying New York over Los Angeles. Gary Gentry went the distance for the Mets, scattering seven hits, to record his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Roman Gabriel Will Be Ready

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Roman Gabriel, the Los Angeles Rams quarterback, said Thursday he definitely will be ready to play when the regular National Football League season starts.

Gabriel was released from hospital here after recovering from a collapsed lung suffered on Monday, the first day of the veterans' practice.

It will be next week before Gabriel can jog and it will be three weeks or more before he can take part in full workouts. But he was confident.

"To adequately prepare yourself for the league season, you should have three complete pre-season games or the equivalent," he said. "I hope to have that much."

Second Inquest Continues Into Fred Quilt's Death

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The fourth day of the second inquest into the death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt brought testimony from two physicians that a considerable force was probably needed to cause the injury that apparently resulted in Mr. Quilt's death.

Dr. Han Choo Lee and Dr. Nicholas Cormaar agreed Thursday with suggestions by Harry Rankin, lawyer for Mr. Quilt's estate, that a strong blow would have been the most probable cause of the injury.

Mr. Quilt died at Cariboo Memorial Hospital in Williams Lake, B.C., Nov. 30. His small intestine had been severed, resulting in peritonitis.

His wife and sister-in-law earlier told the inquest that he was jumped on by an RCMP constable after being removed from a truck on a Chilcotin road Nov. 28.

A Williams Lake coroner's jury ruled in January that the death was unnatural and accidental, but the second inquest was ordered because of an association between two of the Williams Lake jurors and the RCMP.

Dr. Lee, who examined Mr. Quilt at the hospital shortly before his death and later performed an autopsy, said it was unlikely that the injury came from the man falling out of the truck, but that it was possible if he had fallen on a sharp object.

He estimated the injury was sustained about 48 hours before Mr. Quilt's death, but could have been suffered as little as 30 hours before death.

Dr. Dormaar said he had examined Mr. Quilt Nov. 29 at the Anahim Indian Reserve and said Mr. Quilt told him he was suffering from a broken rib. He said, however, that he had found the man's abdominal area tender and thought at the time he was probably suffering from appendicitis.

Earlier in the inquest, Christine Quilt, wife of the dead man, said an ambulance arrived at the reserve on the afternoon of the 29th for her husband.

Mr. Quilt, however, refused to ride in it because it already carried another patient and there was no room for him to lie down.

Nazi's Cruiser Still A Problem

OSLO (AP)—Some beaches and small piers in this Norwegian capital have been polluted by an oil slick several miles long which experts believe came from corroded fuel tanks in the German battle cruiser Bluecher, sunk 32 years ago 300 yards offshore. A 20-man team has gone to the area with oil booms in an effort to prevent the oil spreading.

Westbank Ordered To Clean Up Dump

WESTBANK — The director of the B.C. pollution control branch will be requiring Westbank Irrigation District to apply for a pollution control permit covering its dump near the Westbank Indian Reserve. This was announced by W. A. Kastelen of Vernon, branch district manager.

Earlier this summer Indians complained about insects caused by the dump. Mr. Kastelen said the site was registered as required under the Pollution Control Act, 1967, and the director would require application for the permit in due course.

The district manager also said operational guidelines for land disposal prohibit open burning. These guidelines are used by the director when considering applications for permits.

MUSEUM NOTES

Chariots Of The Gods Turns Heads Of Many Ex-Skeptics

By URSULA SURTEES

It's strange how people's actions contradict their words. Many times, on being introduced to a person, I will be asked during the course of conversation what my work is. When I say I am a museum worker I often get some very funny reactions. Some people are intensely interested in one or another aspect of conservation or preservation, some can barely refrain from the remark, "What kind of a nut are you?" Some declare very vehemently they are not the slightest bit interested in where they came from or how we have progressed.

Then along comes the book, and the subsequent television program, "Chariots of the Gods." The first time this program was shown, it caught the attention, if not the imagination, of all who saw it, and most, staggered by some of the ideas presented, wanted to see it again, an opportunity that was given them recently when it was run a second time. The book became very popular and has now run into several editions. I guess in a way it is a mystery story, certainly the subject matter is far from new, but the daring explanation presented certainly is.

The pros and cons may be argued, the whole thing can be scoffed at, but in spite of all, the fact remains that millions of people have tangibly demonstrated they are curious about the past. Practically every child goes through a dinosaur stage, where their imagination is completely captivated by these prehistoric monsters. In London the "Tutankhamen" treasures are drawing thousands of visitors, some willing to stand in line, up to five hours, to glimpse creations of three thousand years ago.

The interest shown in things archeological has reached a point where the province has had to update its sites Protection Act—antiques are being sought more avidly today than they have ever been. Reproductions of antiques is big business, as is the reprinting of old books and catalogues. Most of us have friends who are literally "hooked" on collecting of one kind or another, such as bottles, weapons, telephones, records, and even in the U.S.A.—barbed wire—of which incidentally, there are about 150 different kinds. The conclusion to all this being, many people say they are not interested in the past, but very few can ignore it completely.

HELP GAS STATIONS

MONTREAL (CP)—Gulf Canada has had to subsidize 30 of 125 service stations in areas of the city where cut-rate gasoline is being offered by independent operators, Joseph Cotreau, Gulf public relations director, said Wednesday. He said the competition has been mainly in the east end of the city, where regular-grade gasoline has been selling for as little as 41.9 cents a gallon and high octane for 46.9 cents.

Anglican Camp Termed Success

WESTBANK (Special) — St. George's Anglican Church, Westbank, supported an adventure camp in Christian Living at Camp Owaless, by giving of themselves in money, time, donations and prayers.

Twelve young people and a director from Westbank were among the many attending "Junior Girls" at the Okanagan Anglican Camp at Wilson's Landing from July 8 to 15. They enjoyed swimming, hiking, sports, crafts, campfire and fellowship as well as sharing together the chores of the day.

One cloudy day was made brighter by the visit of the RCMP patrol boat. The girls enjoyed a lesson on water safety and a tour through the 29 foot yacht. One rainy day was brightened by the Rev. Ray Bray of Westbank who gave an indoor lesson on canoeing and water safety. Mrs. Bray assisted as nurse to give "Nursie" (Mrs. Kidd) a day off.

Many campers felt that the fellowship and devotions at campfire brought them closer to God through Christ, the Light of the World. The camp motto "In Thy light shall we see light," was evident throughout camp.

Campers attending Junior Girls' Camp were: Jennifer Andreen, Colleen Proctor, Alice Waldron, Meghan McIntosh, Vanda Ruffi, Stacey Ruffi, Barbara Parker, Kathleen Simkins, Anthea Brown. The juniors for counselors were: Elizabeth Taylor, Marion McIntosh, Iona Gaskell. The director was Mrs. Ben Waldron assisted by Mrs. Paul Pierron and Cyndy of Rutland, formerly of Westbank.

At least five young people from Westbank attended Junior Boys' Camp the week previous and enjoyed a similar adventure in living.

The Bearded Bard Title Gives Way To Another One

TORONTO (CP) — Whiskered Lister Sinclair has been called such things as The Bearded Bard, The Armpit and Canada's best playwright of the air. His new and more formal title of executive vice-president puts him in charge of all CBC programs.

This many-faceted intellectual, who intended to be an astronomer but wound up as author, lecturer, pundit, wit, satirist and panel star, moves into just about the hottest seat in Canadian broadcasting Aug. 1 as part of a shift at the apex of the corporation. He's not worried.

The job of chief executive officer of the sometimes turbulent CBC is a considerable step from the relative serenity of executive producer in the arts and sciences here—some eyebrows were lifted when he was jumped over a battery of vice-presidents—and lands him at the top of a regiment of executives noted for being handy at fighting.

Does the new boss feel qualified to stand up to it?

"I don't like it but I'm not at all afraid of it—you get that at the bottom, too," the spare six-footer said in an interview, his voice soft and his accustomed slight smile unchanged.

"In any case," he added, "I'm going to spend the next few months listening and learning."

"I'll be doing nothing but that, almost."

What about his plans for the office he takes over?

LISTER SINCLAIR
... new title

"I have a couple of things in mind at the moment," he said. "One thing I want to do is to help the producers and their audiences find each other. Sometimes this takes a while."

"We are supposed to be reflecting the Canadian way of life, which is changing, and this means we have to change things. An instance is the large audience now interested in ecology, a word that meant little to Canadians only a few years ago."

But he has no intention of catering to the mass, or lowest common denominator, audience—"though I'm not a highbrow, maybe an omnibrow."

Another aim is to see what there is in its programming that the CBC should be proud of.

"We should be able to be proud of the whole range of programs—they're all important," he said. "Some have more money than others, but that does not necessarily make them more important."

STRESSES NEWS

To the 51-year-old Sinclair, involved with the CBC since he gave up teaching mathematics in 1944, programming is everything. He heartily agrees with Robert Fowler, who ran a royal commission on broadcasting in the late 1950s, that "everything else is housekeeping."

One aspect of programming on which he lays special emphasis is news.

"It's absolutely fundamental, absolutely central," he said. "I'm thinking of good news coverage and good news writing. I have some ideas on the subject but if I start talking about them now, I may never get them done."

He said that at present he has no particular ideas for any shifts in emphasis in the format of CBC programs.

"I think I'll just listen for a while," he said.

This will be something of a reverse twist, for Canadians

British Critics Give V Sign For Film About Young Winston

LONDON (AP)—British critics gave the V for Victory sign today to Young Winston, a hard-hitting film about Winston Churchill's early life by American producer Carl Foreman and British director Richard Attenborough.

They hailed it as a major epic and predicted a bright future for Simon Ward, the unknown British actor who plays the title role.

"It gets right under the skin of its leading character, presenting the ego, the brashness, the warts and all," Donald Zec writes in The Daily Mirror. "It is history, but it doesn't balk at the clinical details, cutting right into the rich, though somewhat tainted, bloodstream of one of the most formidable figures of the last century."

Said Cecil Wilson in the Daily Mail: "There are no half measures about Carl Foreman's picture of him as a mixture of Houdini, political whiz-kid and military James Bond... a handsome living portrait of a giant in the making."

SPIRIT CAPTURED

Patrick Gibbs, writing in The Daily Telegraph, said: "The spirit of the story, and the personality of the central character, are captured... completely."

Ian Christie wrote in The Daily Express: "It is a tribute to Carl Foreman's script and Richard Attenborough's direction that his portrait of the early years of an important egotist turns out to be so attractive and compulsively entertaining."

A dissent came from Michael McNay in The Guardian. He said the movie was little more than a "two-hour, 36-minute yawn" and "the real heroes,

SMASHING DEFEAT

LONDON (CP) — Soccer may be all the rage among sports fans in Britain, but for one frenzied supporter the defeat of his favorite team, Arsenal, meant having a smashing time. Disgusted with the side's performance during one defeat, George Follett grabbed a hammer and smashed the windows of cars parked in the street outside his home. Follett was fined £40 (about $100) and ordered to pay £55 compensation.

Sophia Named Macaroni Woman

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The National Macaroni Manufacturers Association gave actress Sophia Loren its highest award Wednesday: "Macaroni Woman of the year."

Robert Green, executive secretary, told the group's convention that Miss Loren is a dazzling representative of women who eat macaroni. The Italian actress will get a year's supply of it.

SUMMER IN EAST

Actor Eric House is spending the summer at Halifax's Neptune Theatre and will be returning to Toronto in the fall to rejoin the St. Lawrence Arts Centre company.

Handsome-Ugly Bronson Prefers Making Movies With Europeans

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He has the build of a college wrestler, a face that might have been found on an Inca tomb. His manner is menacing, even in normal conversation.

He is not Hollywood's idea of a film star, but Charles Bronson is the hottest attraction in Europe. Like Clint Eastwood, he had to go to Europe to achieve stardom. Unlike Eastwood, Bronson doesn't hanker to make his movies here.

"I prefer working in Europe, where the subject matter for films is more varied," he says. "Producers over there are interested in the international market, and so am I."

The Charles Bronson vogue has not struck North America as yet. But a visitor to Europe sees it all over. In Madrid and Rome and other major cities, theatres are plastered with huge blowups of the hard-muscled Bronson figure and his handsome-ugly face.

Dino DeLaurentiis, who produced Bronson's latest film, The Valachi Papers, terms the actor "the biggest draw of the day in motion picture theatres." The Italian producer has nailed down Bronson for two more films, possibly three. The deal, said DeLaurentiis, will make Bronson "the world's most highly salaried actor."

WON'T SAY HOW MUCH

How much money does the contract involve? "I won't say," Bronson replied.

He has come a long way from the Pennsylvania coal mining town where he was born to Lithuanian immigrants named Buchinsky. Charlie followed his father into the mines, broke out for a roving period in which he tangled with the law. He started acting in Philadelphia, moved to the Pasadena Playhouse and entered films in 1951.

Bronson proved highly serviceable in westerns—The Magnificent Seven—and war movies—The Dirty Dozen—generally as the heavy or the hero's friend.

"Hollywood has always been limited in the casting of stars," he stated. "The money for films is borrowed on the stars' names, and traditionally the stars have been the half-baked publicity names."

"In Europe there is no such problem. Most of the countries have government subsidies, so the producers don't have to borrow on stars' names. They hire the best actors for the roles."

CBC Throws Out Anniversary Plan

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC has scrapped plans for a $150,000 television drama which had been planned to mark next year's 100th anniversary of the RCMP, CBC officials say.

Grahame Woods, the writer for the project, described the action as "a Jalna backlash."

"The CBC now is very concerned about spending too much money in any one thing."

The Whiteoaks of Jalna, an expensive series based on Mazo de la Roche's saga, was cancelled earlier by the network when only partially complete. The RCMP drama was to have been a 90-minute production called The Long March. It was to have involved 10 leading actors, 30 supporting players and at least 100 extras. Four weeks on location shooting in Alberta had been planned for the end of the summer.

Thom Benson, CBC entertainment director, said the CBC will be doing "some program, but not this expensive one, which really was about the birth of Western Canada."

Rock Group Cleared

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six members of Sly and the Family Stone rock group have been released after a district attorney ruled there was insufficient evidence to prosecute them on charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Sheriff's officers arrested the singers Tuesday after stopping and searching their motor home on Santa Monica Boulevard.

Jack Jones Gets Order

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Jack Jones has obtained a restraining order preventing his former business manager from transferring or disposing of any of his interests, said to be worth $1 million.

The order was issued Tuesday in connection with Jones' suit against Robert Prince, his former business manager, lawyers Joseph Wolf and Allan Liebert and accountant Sidney Bush.

Jones, who fired Prince earlier this month, contends in the suit that he refused to give him any information about his holdings since 1960.

Hard Times For Sheriffs

PARSONS, W. Va. (AP) — The Tucker County sheriff's job is all in the family for Mary and Carl Hedrick.

Carl was sheriff of the 27,000-person county from 1964 to 1968 and since he couldn't succeed himself, his wife decided to run.

She won and spent the last four years as sheriff, mostly occupied with tax collection and book-keeping duties.

In November, Hedrick plans to run again.

The biggest problem in the sheriff's job, said Mrs. Hedrick, is keeping money in the treasury, since the U.S. Forest Service owns 42 per cent of the county and that land produces no tax revenues.

"You've got to make every dollar count," said Mrs. Hedrick, a 37-year-old mother of three.

CBC Gains Nod On B.C. Centre

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC has received the go-ahead from the federal government for construction of a $10.6-million regional broadcasting centre in Vancouver.

The CBC announced recently that Treasury Board has approved a contract between the CBC and Foundation Co. of Canada Ltd.

The new centre, to be completed in 1974, will be opposite the Queen Elizabeth Playhouse, on the block enclosed by Georgia, Cambie, Robson and Hamilton streets. The CBC said its present facilities "consist largely of a former garage and automobile showroom, purchased and converted in 1953-54 as a 'temporary' measure."

Architects for the development are Thompson, Berwick, Pratt and Partners of Vancouver.

Stratford Festival In 20th Season Provides Showcase For Canadians

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival in its 20th season is providing a major showcase for Canadians, with five of its 10 theatrical productions written or adapted by Canadians.

With one exception, these works are being presented at the festival's Third Stage theatre, introduced last season as a showcase for experimental and workshop productions.

Wednesday night, the Third Stage presented the world premiere of Mark, a drama by Betty Jane Wylie. Mrs. Wylie, a native of Winnipeg, is best known for her adaptation of Ibsen's An Enemy of the People which has been performed at the Manitoba Theatre Centre in Winnipeg, Toronto's St. Lawrence Centre and the National Arts Centre in Ottawa.

Mark, which focuses on a man dying of cancer and which Mrs. Wylie says is biographical but not "a documentary," is directed by William Hutt, the festival's associated director.

Mr. Hutt says that "50 per cent of my interest in directing Mark is to show that the festival's artistic personnel isn't just on the perimeter of the all-Canadian section of our operation."

"And to show that Canadian works aren't considered on the festival's perimeter."

Harvey Chusid, writing for the Vancouver Sun, says of Mark:

"There are some haunting individual lines, unexpected flashes of humor, and some solid evocations of mood, but the play falls short of a form which will plumb, with a striking force, the inner lives of its characters."

CORWIN HOSTS

Noted American impresario-playwright Norman Corwin hosts a new series of half-hour taped dramas under the title, Norman Corwin Presents, for telecast Fridays at 8:30 p.m. on CBC-TV in color. He will introduce the teleplays, some of which he wrote himself, and which will star actors of international stature, both American and Canadian. The anthology series will range from comedy to tragedy, with the accent on imaginative scripts.

Gourmet Slows To A Stop

TORONTO (CP) — Graham Kerr, television's popular Galloping Gourmet, has decided to perform from now on for an audience of one—his wife Treena.

Kerr, arriving back in Toronto after a four-month cruise of the Mediterranean aboard his 71-foot yacht, said Wednesday he and his wife will spend the next four years sailing around the world.

"TV is dehumanizing if you keep it up too long," said the 38-year-old star of the popular syndicated cooking series in an interview. "You can't look into a camera lens forever unless you're an egomaniac."

During the last month before he and his wife set sail in April, Kerr filmed more than 100 shows. He ended up with a total of 585 segments.

His yearly income will be about $50,000 from investments and reruns of his show until 1974.

COOK BOOK

LONDON (CP) — An extravagant botanical survey of Captain James Cook's first voyage of discovery in the Pacific will be on sale later this year—at £25 (about $1,312.50) a copy. The Royal College of Art is publishing 10 of these luxurious editions, with 100 cheaper versions priced at £157.50 each. Publication of Captain Cook's Florilegium, which involves a costly copper-plate engraving process, originally was held up 200 years ago by an ownership dispute, a college spokesman said.

LAST CLASS

HALIFAX (CP) — Mount St. Vincent Academy has graduated its final class and closed its doors after 99 years of service. The private school for girls, founded in 1864 and operated by the Sister of Charity, a Roman Catholic religious order, closed because of a lack of funds. Academy facilities will be used to help provide housing for about 180 students attending Mount St. Vincent University.

have been listening to him or his material, or seeing them, for almost 30 years, since he threw up a teaching fellowship at the University of Toronto to boost his pay for shoving mathematics at the students.

TAUGHT MUSIC

It was all more or less by accident. Born in Bombay as the son of a chemical engineer and schooled in London, he had gone to New York to see the World's Fair of the early 1930s. From there he decided to move on to Vancouver, where he came up with a BA at University of British Columbia after setting a poor example by getting top marks with only rare appearances in class.

Moving to Toronto, he helped eke out his fellowship pay by teaching music—he plays the piano and bagpipes, though he does not count piping as music—and poetry. In the linguistic field, he speaks French and reads Spanish, Italian and German.

By his mid-20s he was regarded as Canada's top radio writer and since then he has picked up a wall full of national and international citations for programs in the fields of the arts, science and history and such diversified programs as documentaries on Shakespeare, Darwin, Bernard Shaw and the Galapagos.

He also was regarded as about the sloppiest-looking of top performers, his clothes unkempt and his whiskers straggling—he quit shaving to avoid razor wounds. Nowadays he dresses informally but conventionally and his beard is down to a neatly trimmed set of chin foliage.

STUDIES TV FUTURE

In recent years he has added management techniques to his wide range of interests and is a member of a CBC task force established by new president Laurent Picard to study the future of CBC television.

His most recent assignment was managing an ambitious eight-part TV series based on Pierre Berton's two-volume history of the CPR. He is giving this up, along with all other direct producing.

STAGE NEW PLAYS
 EDMONTON (CP) — Two new plays by Toronto writers have been scheduled for Edmonton's Citadel Theatre this fall. They are The VP by Alexander McAllister, a drama dealing with Canada-United States big-business relations, and a comedy, The Unreasonable Act of Julian Waterman, by Ron Taylor.

Stunned By Manager's Death Met's Directors Study Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Stunned by the death of Goeran Gentele, the new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, the Met's board of directors met this week to discuss the company's future.

Gentele, 54, and two of his daughters, Cecilia Anne, 21, and Beatrice, 15, were killed Tuesday when a car the Swedish director was driving collided head-on with a truck in Sardinia, where the family was vacationing.

Gentele's wife, Marit, and daughter Janette, 27, were taken to hospital in Olbia, Sardinia. Their conditions were reported improved today.

News of the Swedish director's death brought reactions of shock.

Conductor Leonard Bernstein, reached at Tanglewood in Massachusetts, said: "It's impossible. What can one say?"

MET OPENS SEPT. 16

Bernstein is scheduled to conduct Carmen, the Met's opening night opera Sept. 16.

Mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne wept when she heard the news in Los Angeles. She is scheduled to sing the title role in Carmen.

Mayor John Lindsay called the accident "a devastating tragedy."

Sir Rudolf Bing, 70, who was general manager of the Met from 1950 until June 30 of this year, is on vacation and could not be reached.

George Moore, the Met board chairman, said: "The company will carry on with the whole season just as Mr. Gentele planned it."

Moore said there would be no quick decision as to Gentele's successor. "We're all in shock," he said.

ASSISTANT MAY ACT

The board meeting already had been scheduled. In the meantime, it was believed that Moore planned to recommend that Schuyler Chapin, Gentele's assistant, be appointed acting manager.

Although he assumed full control of the Met only weeks ago when Bing stepped down, sweeping changes had taken place at the opera house since Gentele was named general manager 18 months ago.

He hired the company's first black conductor, Henry Lewis, the husband of Miss Horne and conductor of the New Jersey Symphony.

Gentele also planned a Piccolo Met, to offer small-scale operatic concerts. He appointed the first music director in the company's history, Rafael Kubelik. In addition, he hoped to bring Ingmar Bergman to the company as a director and planned to encourage informal attire at the opera.

Gentele, who was born in Stockholm, sometimes directed operas himself as a producer at the Stockholm Royal Opera from 1950 to 1963 and as general manager from 1963 until coming to New York.

He Judged It About Time

LONDON (AP) — Judge Frederick McIntyre of the divorce court dissolved 18 broken marriages before lunch Tuesday, then took the afternoon off to get married to a divorcee.

"He must know the pitfalls to dodge by now," said his bride, 54-year-old social worker Marjorie Bowman who was divorced several years ago.

The judge is 67, and it's his first marriage.

"I never married before," he said, "because at first I felt I was too young. And before I knew it I was middle-aged."

"We'd known each other for about 10 days when I said to her, 'You look after old people. I'm an old person—how about looking after me?'"

"She burst into tears and said yes."

Joey Heatherton Sues Paul Anka

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Joey Heatherton is suing Ottawa-born singer Paul Anka for $10.12 million.

The suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court, contends Anka forced a Las Vegas hotel to break a contract with Miss Heatherton. She said Anka told the management of Caesars Palace he would not perform if she was on the bill with him, despite an earlier contract. The suit claims that the hotel then cancelled its contract with Miss Heatherton but offered her a booking for next winter.

The suit asks $120,000 in actual damages and $10 million "for damages to the plaintiff's reputation and good will."

It beats cleaning house, says Raquel Welch, about her physically and mentally demanding job as one of the world's leading movie stars.

CRTV Order Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Val Scott, federal New Democratic Party candidate for York West, said Monday he will appeal a decision by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission allowing Toronto broadcaster Jim Fleming to remain on the air while running for the Liberals.

When Fleming was nominated to contest an Oct. 1 byelection in the riding, the CRTC cited the "inequitable advantage" he would have and ordered him to quit his job as co-host of a Toronto Saturday evening talk show on CFTO-TV, until after the voting.

The commission's decision Monday rescinds its earlier ruling and allows Mr. Fleming to broadcast until eight weeks before the byelection.

A Shaw Night Of Theatre

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — For the pleasure of an obviously delighted audience that filled to capacity the Court House Theatre, a much-travelled production of George Bernard Shaw's Misalliance arrived home at the 11th Shaw Festival.

The play is brilliant, witty, a devastating attack on the Edwardian home and school, and many of Shaw's arguments are astonishingly relevant even today.

Directed by Paxton Whitehead, with set design by Maurice Strike, Misalliance was this season's tour production with performances over a seven-week period in five cities in Central Canada and the eastern United States.

Highlight of the tour was a two-week engagement at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., making the festival the first Canadian theatrical company to appear at the new centre.

The production also was presented in Ottawa, Rochester, N.Y., Kingston, Ont., and Montreal.

Misalliance, previously presented at the festival in 1966, is the last of this season's three productions to open.

Both Misalliance and Shaw's Getting Married, which opened last Sunday, run in repertory to the season's conclusion Sept. 3, and are guaranteed almost sell-out audiences for every performance from advance sales.

The season's first production of the American comedy The Royal Family, by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber, played to 91-per-cent capacity for its run of 35 performances.

Don Braid of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record says of Misalliance: "Triumphant, dazzling, witty—line up all the superlatives and they barely describe the Shaw Festival's splendid production of Misalliance."

Herbert Whitaker of the Globe and Mail says: "... I admit that Misalliance can sparkle deliciously, but I don't ever want to see it played again by performers of lesser skill."

A Guy And 200-Girl Band A Mixture That Survives

EDMONTON (CP) — Surround the average guy with 200 girls armed with drums and bugles and he'll shatter as easily as a piece of delicate crystal.

Not Bob Nagel. He lives much of his life in such circumstances and thrives.

He's owner of, and bandmaster for, the Alberta All-Girls Drum and Bugle Band, a group which has won acclaim across North America and now has its sights on Europe.

Actually, he doesn't have to deal with all 200 girls at the same time—they're broken into junior and senior divisions.

The 100-member senior band, composed of girls between 14 and 18 years old, has been selected to play at the opening ceremonies for the Olympic Games in Munich, Germany, this August.

They're taking that opportunity to tour Europe and will stage performances in France, at the Highland Games in Edinburgh and on the BBC television network.

WON TOP HONORS

Mr. Nagel, 32, formed the band two years ago and since has taken the senior girls on tours of Mexico, the United States and Canada. This spring the senior section captured top honors in the fancy drill and open test piece competitions at the Moose Jaw Kinsmen International Band Festival.

To Mr. Nagel, the band is a job, a business venture and a hobby, all rolled into one. He charges people to hear it, and although it's a non-profit organization, he's allowed by law to take 10 per cent of its income.

"Not that I ever have," he says. "Costs are high and we need a lot of money to keep going. This year we spent $20,000 on new instruments."

He also has been spending big money to bring in top instructors from the United States.

During the winter, says Mr. Nagel, a musician and one-time show promoter, the girls practise three times a week. At a recent clinic they rehearsed from 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. the next day.

PRACTICE PAYS OFF

The long hours of practice have paid off, he says.

"It's a big sound now. A dynamic sound. We're really going to shake them up over there (Europe)."

Mr. Nagel's ambition is to make the Alberta girls the world's greatest band. And, it's because the girls share this goal that they're so good, he says.

"We're doing things that a band just doesn't do. Like playing in a bull ring in Mexico or at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas."

The band has three buses which carry the girls between bookings at festivals, rodeos, parades, and other engagements during the summer.

ABC Shifts Management

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. has announced a major realignment of its corporate structure, including the creation of several new posts of president.

The new assignments were approved by the board of directors meeting in New York.

Elton Rule, president of the parent company, said Walter Schwartz was appointed president of ABC Television. This is a new corporate post that will oversee the operations of the television network, the owned television stations and other related departments.

In the second major realignment, Harold L. Neal Jr., formerly president of ABC-owned AM radio stations, was named president of ABC Radio.

Martin Starger, who had been programming vice-president for the network, was appointed president of ABC Entertainment. A new department will be established.

A second new department, planning and development, will be headed by Frederick Pierce as vice-president.

Ellis Moore was elevated from vice-president of public relations of the broadcast division to a similar post with the parent company.

Edward McLaughlin was named president of the ABC Radio Network to succeed Schwartz. Charles De Bare succeeds Neal as president of the ABC owned AM Radio Stations.

Clean Sweep By His Honor

ANACAPRI, Italy (AP) — Who's sweeping the streets in this Isle of Capri town these days? His honor, the mayor.

And who's going from house to house to haul away the trash? The honorable members of the town council.

They turned out Tuesday to do what had to be done after 10 days of a strike by the town's 12 street cleaners left things in a sorry state at the height of the tourist season.

The street cleaners say they'll resume work if they get extra pay for the added work brought on by the tourist influx.

No lower cost . . .

No higher quality . . .

Many families can't afford to pay very much for a funeral. This is certainly nothing to be ashamed of, and it shouldn't mean that these families must settle for services which are inferior or of the "disposal" type.

That's why we at Day's have always offered a Golden Rule Funeral Service, whereby families who can't afford to pay much (or anything) in time of need are still assured a final tribute of dignity and quality.

You hear a lot of talk about substitutes for the traditional funeral, but these always seem to exclude such vital human qualities as compassion and thoughtfulness. We are devoted to the continuation of these qualities for families — all families! — regardless of finances.

Films By Blacks For Blacks A New Profit-Making Outcome

Films by blacks, starring blacks, aimed for the black market, is a new—and highly profitable—development in the entertainment field. How did it come about? Are the pictures truly representative of the black experience? Following is the first of two articles on the black film phenomenon.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In the current film Shaft's Big Score, the black private detective hero scorns a New York police investigator, also black: "My mother told me to stay away from black honkies with big flat feet."

Five years ago, such a put down of whites and blacks who work for the white establishment might have caused outrage.

Today such scenes are common. And not merely in low-budget exploitation films. Films made by blacks and aimed primarily at the black market are being financed on sizable budgets by major studios.

This is the result of a black revolution in the movie industry. Film companies have discovered belatedly that millions of dollars can be made by aiming movies primarily at the big-city black audience. If the movies contain enough quality, they also will draw whites.

Hence, a bonanza such as MGM produced last year with Shaft. The film grossed $18 million in the United States and Canada. It was MGM's only big hit in 1971.

TOOK A LONG TIME
The Negro's advent to film prominence was a long time coming.

During the earliest years of movies, the black was portrayed as either servile, as in various versions of Uncle Tom's Cabin, or lazy, as in two 1910 series, Rastus and Sambo.

The black as villain was exploited by D. W. Griffith in the 1915 Birth of Nation. Griffith was so astonished by the outcry of prejudice that he made the epic Intolerance in his own defence.

The talkie period brought some all black films: Hallelujah, by MGM in 1929; The Green Pastures, Warner Brothers, 1936; Stormy Weather, 20th Fox, 1943; Cabin in the Sky, MGM, 1943; Carmen Jones, Preminger, 1954; Porgy and Bess, Goldwyn, 1959; Raisin in the Sun, Columbia, 1961.

None of these films was a financial success, and producers over the years adopted the maxim that "colored pictures don't sell."

WORK SCARCE

There was scant work for black actors during the first 50 years of film history. A few became well known, largely in roles as menials: Clarence Muse, Louise Beavers, Bill Robinson, Ethel Waters, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson. Hattie McDaniel won an Oscar for her role as Mammy in Gone with the Wind.

Others were relegated to roles in which they appeared incredibly lazy or frightened of ghosts, Stepin Fetchit, Willie Best, Farina of the Our Gang comedies, and an actor who was called Sleep'n' Eat.

Paul Robeson played a few leading roles in the 1930s, mostly in non-Hollywood films such as The Emperor Jones, and Sanders of the River.

Sidney Poitier was the star who started the black revolution in films.

The Nassau-born actor had been in movies since No Way Out in 1950, but he seemed destined for billing under such stars as Tony Curtis and Rock Hudson. Then in 1963 he starred in Lilies of the Field, and won the Oscar as best actor.

WAS IN MONEYMAKERS

He later appeared in such moneymakers as A Patch of Blue, To Sir with Love, In the Heat of the Night and Guess Who's Coming to Dinner. Always he portrayed a successful black in the white world.

"The industry discovered something from Poitier's films," says Jim Brown, the pro footballer who became a black film star. "Over half the patronage came from blacks in the big cities."

"That pointed out two things to the producers: that the industry needed some black stars; and that dignity was needed in the portrayal of blacks on the screen."

Poitier's immense success helped create stardom for other black actors: Brown, Raymond St. Jacques, Richard Roundtree, Godfrey Cambridge, Calvin Lockhart, Yaphet Kotto.

Black pictures helped solve a crisis for theatre owners. With whites moving to the suburbs, massive old theatres in the central cities seemed doomed to decay and destruction. The lure of black films began filling up those theatres with Negroes who remained in the cities.

Film companies began to see the need of black directors to interpret the black experience. Magazine photographer Gordon Parks was the pioneer with The Learning Tree in 1969. Last year he scored with Shaft.

Melvin Van Peebles directed Watermelon Man for Columbia, then made Sweet Sweet Black on his own for an immense profit.

HEAVY WATER OUTPUT

Six New Plants To Be Needed

OTTAWA (CP)—Six new heavy water plants will be required by 1985 to meet forecast needs for nuclear production, L. P. Haywood, vice-president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., said today.

Mr. Haywood, head of the heavy water project of the government corporation, said if nuclear power plants are built at the present spiralling rate, much more heavy water will be needed than can be produced by plants now planned.

Experts fear a shortage of heavy water which will hamper growth of the industry.

Half of the power needs in Canada will be supplied by nuclear plants within 10 years, Mr. Haywood predicted.

The Port Hawkesbury, N.S., plant operated by Canadian General Electric, is producing at 60 per cent of capacity, making 18 metric tons of heavy water a month. Heavy water is used as a coolant in Canada's natural-uranium fuelled reactors.

SURPLUS WILL VANISH

While it is expected Canada will have a surplus of heavy water by the spring of 1974, forecasts are that production will be insufficient for the growth of the nuclear power industry by the end of the decade.

For this reason, a start should be made now on new plants to produce heavy water, Mr. Haywood said in an interview. It takes three years to build a heavy water plant.

If the heavy water supply is inadequate to meet needs, Canada will miss the full value of all the effort which has been put into study of nuclear power production by government and industry, Mr. Haywood said.

ESTIMATES NEEDED

Expected production from the three heavy water producers in Canada at Port Hawkesbury, Douglas Point, Ont., and Glace Bay, N.S., is estimated at 1,476 metric tons a year when they reach maturity. Full capacity for the last of the three, the trouble-plagued plant at Glace Bay, is not expected until 1979.

Mr. Haywood estimates requirements for heavy water in Canada by 1985 will total 4,000 tons annually.

"We will have to build plants capable of producing 2,500 metric tons per year."

This would mean six plants the size of the Port Hawkesbury operation and an investment of "at least $500 million."

Mr. Haywood said the solution to the possible shortage is for a large customer, such as Ontario Hydro, to place a large order for heavy water. This would persuade industry to build more plants for heavy water production.

But up to now Ontario Hydro has not formally signified its intention to build more nuclear power plants.

The problem was a "chicken-egg situation." Power plants might not be built because of the forecast shortage of heavy water, and heavy water plants were not being constructed because of lack of demand for the product, despite a record price of $32.50 a pound.

Staff Cuts And Less Hiring Hospitals Reply To Deficits

VANCOUVER (CP)—Staff cuts, hiring of less summer help, and negotiations with the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service are among the actions being taken by B.C. hospitals to cope with projected deficits this year.

The per diem rates announced recently by BCHIS for most major hospitals were lower than the hospitals had planned for, although higher than the 1971 rates.

In New Westminster, Dr. R. G. Foulkes, administrator of Royal Columbian Hospital, said Thursday that 17 staff members have been laid off to reduce costs and more layoffs might be required later in the year.

He said the Royal Columbian, with a per diem rate of $65.85 this year, compared to $61.65 in 1971, faces a projected deficit of $300,000.

Dr. Foulkes said the hospital is as concerned as the government in trying to run its services as efficiently as possible.

"But we seem to be in an upward spiral. Health costs in Canada doubled from 1951 to 1965, then doubled again in only five years from 1965 to 1970, he said.

Ken Weaver, administrator of Vancouver General, said he had recently received the 1972 rate "and we are going to discuss it with the BCHIS this week. We are not entirely satisfied although at the moment it is pretty difficult to assess the ramifications."

He said the VGH is running into an undisclosed deficit.

Mr. Weaver said the per diem rate was about "two per cent under what we required based on last year's operation, but we didn't take into consideration increased costs such as increased union demands."

Burnaby General Hospital was hoping for a $53.30 rate but received instead $48.60, said assistant administrator Don McKinnon. Last year the hospital received $43.95.

"What we are doing now," he said, "is applying to the BCHIS for reconsideration."

The projected deficit for Burnaby is $80,000, he said.

"There are no plans of laying off anyone," said Mr. McKinnon, "but any decision will depend upon the results of our negotiations with the government."

J. E. Bragg, administrator of Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver said his hospital has had to "tidy up and make a few adjustments."

Economies had been made by engaging fewer summer employees, raising the meal charges, "and smarter buying," he said.

In Victoria, the Queen Victoria General Hospital is confined to the 1971 procedures while "we analyse what we can add, and where we can set priorities," said administrator Dr. Embert Van Tilberg.

He said they asked for a $73 rate, received $64.40, so have been economizing by not replacing staff that leave. The hospital has also reduced its intake of summer staff.

The BCHIS sets individual rates for each hospital mainly on the basis of the previous year's figure, plus an increase that the BCHIS estimates will cover high costs. This is often a point of dispute.

The rates for any particular year are not announced until the period May to July.

Hitler's Backer Dies Rich At 89

DUESSELDORF (AP)—Friedrich Flick, a farmer's son who became one of Adolf Hitler's biggest industrial backers and was reputed to be post-war Germany's richest man, died Thursday in hospital at Konstanz, a spokesman announced today.

He was 89 and leaves an industrial empire with an annual turnover of more than $2 billion. His holdings included the Daimler-Benz automobile works, makers of the Mercedes.

A Nurnberg war crimes tribunal sentenced Flick in 1947 to seven years in prison on charges of using slave labor during the Second World War, but he was released in 1950. Two years later the Western occupation powers returned part of his coal and steel holdings to him.

A communique from the Flick combine said he had had a serious kidney ailment for some time. He also was reported to have had a bronchial condition.

The communique said leadership of the combine would be assumed by Flick's youngest son, Dr. Friedrich Karl Flick, 45, who has been his father's chief aide for the last 15 years.

AVOIDED PUBLICITY

Despite his wealth, Flick avoided publicity and was a shadowy figure in West German industry.

During the period when the Kaiser was building up his armies, Flick entered the thriving iron and steel business and by the age of 30 he was the general manager of a steel foundry at Schwerte in the Ruhr.

He proved to be adept at taking over companies and banding them together into trusts. In the process, he created what at the time was the biggest coal and steel giant in Germany—the Vereinigte Stahlwerke. At the height of the Depression in 1931, Flick divested himself of his Vereinigte Stahlwerke interests which then were bought by the government.

In 1936, Hitler commissioned him to reacquire these vast holdings.

But as early as 1932, the Nurnberg indictment charged, Flick had joined about 30 other German industrialists to form the "Little Circle," which participated in effecting Hitler's rise to power.

HELPED BY GOERING

Hermann Goering helped Flick obtain a state loan to buy iron mines in his native Silesia and electrical works in the Rhineland. The annexation of Austria brought him the Salzburg mines and smelting plants. Other smelters came into his possession with the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine. From occupied Poland and Czechoslovakia he obtained more coal, iron and steel concerns. Behind the conquering German army his empire expanded into Russia.

With the outbreak of war, Flick received rich arms contracts. His plants turned Flick iron and steel into airplanes, tanks, ships, trucks, submarines and robot bombs. Toward war's end, Flick's holdings swelled to an estimated $200,000,000 in more than 100 concerns.

Terrace Bay Residents Miffed At U.S. Firm Firing Technique

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (CP)—None of those fired said they felt the company acted illegally. They are receiving severance pay, holiday pay, and full pay to Aug. 1 or longer. Most will receive pensions at age 65.

Another fired was Stan Hodgkiss, 56, who ran the company's traffic operation. A former president of the Thunder Bay Progressive Conservative riding association and first president of the Canadian Wildlife Federation, he came here in 1946 when the site for the mill was being prepared.

"This man Petzold, with no special knowledge of this plant or town, has come up here and disrupted not only my life but the life of the whole community."

The shake-up was conducted by Charles Petzold, an executive of the P. J. Schweitzer Corp., who came to this town 150 miles northeast of Thunder Bay last Thursday from Neenah, Wis. P. J. Schweitzer Corp. became a major shareholder of Kimberly-Clark in the mid 1960s.

Among those affected was mill manager John Ferrier, 63, due for an early retirement Sept. 1. He was told to leave immediately.

FRONT POSITION BAD

But Mr. Ferrier said the layoffs were necessary because the company's "profit position here has been horrible for a number of years."

J. C. Wig, Kimberly vice-president, said in a Toronto interview the company plans to keep the Terrace Bay plant open, but the firings were necessary to increase efficiency at the facility.

Many residents of this small northwestern Ontario community are up in arms over the firing by a United States business executive of half the salaried staff of the town's only company.

Most of the 18 fired or prematurely retired at Kimberly-Clark Pulp and Paper Co. were members of senior management and many had helped build the town of 1,800 in 1946.

"The people mingled in the street when the word came out, and many of them came in crying," a storekeeper said Tuesday about the town's reaction to the firings.

BANGLADESH BABIES ARRIVE

Cries Of Hunger And Tiredness Mingle With Parental Delight

TORONTO (CP)—Cries of hunger and weariness mingled with the delighted exclamations of new parents when the first contingent of Bangladesh infants arrived by air here and in Montreal Thursday night.

One of the families adopting one of them now has 10 children, including one from Vietnam, one from Korea and two adopted Canadians.

And Mrs. Robert Ferrie, the woman who went on a hunger strike to ensure the 15 babies would be brought to Canada, says she expects more adoptions if the Bangladesh government passes the necessary laws and if there is enough support from Canadian parents.

Seven of the 15 flew on to Montreal, and two others were destined for Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia.

There was plenty of support here when the babies arrived from Dacca along with Dr. and Mrs. Ferrie, from Burlington, Ont., who flew there July 14.

Armed with pictures of their new sons and daughters, ranging in age from nine days to eight months, were Ontarians Mr. and Mrs. John Morris of Brantford, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Good of Copetown, Mr. and Mrs. Del Wolsey of Komoka, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boonstra of St. Thomas and Mrs. Phil Rochefort of Espanola.

They had their arms filled with bottles, diapers and other baby goods.

Mrs. Ferrie arrived back exactly one month after ending a 34-day hunger strike to protest what she claimed was stalling by the Ontario government in processing the necessary papers permitting the adoptions. She was assured everything possible was being done.

She resorted to her drastic measure, she said, because she faced a deadline—the summer monsoons that hit the Indian sub-continent in July, often causing cholera outbreaks that could kill the children.

She lived in India for 12 years when her father was a historian of religion there. She is chairman for Asian adoption of the Ontario branch of the Families for Children Association. Her husband, a surgeon, is the branch secretary and accompanied her to Bangladesh for medical examinations of the children for immigration purposes.

The babies are mainly the offspring of soldiers killed in the fighting between India and Pakistan which created the independent country of Bangladesh. Some mothers, unable to care for them, agreed to their adoption. Others are orphans.

The Ferries now have two children aged five years and nine months. They will adopt two of the Bangladesh babies, Savitra, a nine-day-old girl, and Ashako, a three-week-old boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Boonstra, who already have three children, one adopted, said they have adopted little Christopher Omar, born on April 29, "because we like children."

School teacher Philip Rochefort of Espanola and his wife cuddled five-month-old Riya Rupha who will be their second adopted child. They also have one child of their own.

Excited Diane Rochefort said she expects to have two Vietnamese children by Christmas "because we want a large family. . . . It's exciting and scary."

MORE MODERN THAN SOAP BOX

TORONTO (CP)—Persons with a message for the public now have a more sophisticated way of telling it than setting up a soap box in a city park.

The method is called dial-a-service recorded message, and it's attracting preachers, poets, recording artists and everyday citizens who have something to get off their chests.

A spokesman for Bell Canada, which operates the system, explained that anyone can tape their message and plug it into the telephone system where it will be available to anyone dialing the correct number.

It can cost as little as $46.70 a month, but the message must not be obscene and not incite people to violence.

"What the message happens to be isn't our concern," said the Bell spokesman, adding that a 1968 amendment to the telephone company's charter forbids it to alter or control the messages.

Dial-a-service messages, which have been operating here for 13 years but are gaining in popularity, can run as long as three minutes.

A New Life On Pyramid Selling Proved Costly To Ontario Family

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Six months ago, Gerry Reid, 32, gave up his $150-a-week printer's job to dare to be great. Today, he is $6,000 in debt and living on unemployment insurance after uprooting his family from their home in a Niagara peninsula community and coming to this area to make a fresh start.

What was billed as an adventure in pyramid selling now means meals of spaghetti, wieners and beans and stretching the $50 his wife makes as a store clerk.

He says his first contacts with the cosmetics emporium variously as Dare To Be Great and Koscot Interplanetary convinced him he was going to change his lifestyle and get rich quick selling the company's success-Motivation courses.

All he needed was $5,000. So he borrowed. And signed. "I went in with my eyes open. Their contract was legal."

"Go-go," he was told as he was speedily made an "international sales agent" selling "adventure" courses that cost $400, $600, $1,000 and $3,000.

He first decided to work only evenings selling the courses for Dare To Be Great of Canada (1971) Ltd., of Toronto.

Two weeks went by without sales. He said he was told to quit his job and truly dedicate himself while improving his image with fancy clothes and a fancy car.

So he left the job he had held for 12 years, went back to the finance company for the money for the clothes, the car and the high-living sales weekends the company laid on for its representatives and their prospects.

Sales meetings were "like revival meetings," he says.

Mr. Reid recalls a Buffalo weekend that cost $700. He did sell $2,000 worth of "adventure" courses to two customers, but half of his 40-per-cent commission of $1,600 went to the company to pay off the $2,500 he still owed for his own "adventure" courses.

But other sales weekends weren't as successful. Some cost him money. He went deeper into debt. First to go was his color TV set. Then he sold the apartments he owned at a loss.

He was told to "go-go" and think positively.

Today, Mr. Reid dreads going back to his home town.

LOOKS 'STUPID'
"I was suckered. Nobody likes to look stupid in public."

He says that having done the same to friends is worse than the public embarrassment.

"I can't look them in the eyes any more."

He says "the only ones who really make money with this kind of operation are the guys at the top."

"You are really hypnotized. They are so persuasive. People don't believe it could happen to them. Looking back, I can hardly believe that it happened to me. But it did."

TEACHER MEAT NOT THEIR DIET

LUTON, England (Reuter) — Teachers at a school in this mid-England city were somewhat startled Thursday to learn that one of their pupils had dreamed up a teacher-mincing machine.

Ten-year-old Robin Brewster wrote in his school magazine about his "teacher-do-away-with-er" for dealing with teachers who annoy him.

He wrote: "There would be a door into a little room which, when opened, would start a conveyor belt, the teacher would fall on to this and be carried through a series of flattening compressors and then be chopped up with huge axes."

"When the chopping stopped, the teacher would be in little squares. These would be tipped into potato-peeling contraption of my own design and shaped into little balls."

"The balls would then roll down a chute and get hit by a golf club into a wooden tube. They whizz through the tube and hit a lever that operates a 10-ton mallet."

"This comes down and flattens the balls into little steaks which are then dropped through a hole into a meat cellar and stored in barrels of ice."

WORKER KILLED

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP) — A Manitoba man employed by Standard General Construction Ltd. was killed Thursday when the earthscraper he was operating rolled down an embankment near here and crushed him. His name was not released.

Victoria Again Breaks Ranks On Civil Servants Pay Raise

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government has again broken its 6.5 per cent annual wage increase guideline for public employees by agreeing to pay certain civil servants $20 to $40 a month more, effective Oct. 1.

Arthur G. Richardson, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, said the wage adjustments would mainly affect about 4,000 highways and hospital workers.

A spokesman for the 16,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union said correctional service employees, tradesmen, clerks and stenographers would also get the increases.

Mr. Richardson said the adjustments were made in order to keep the civil servants' wages competitive with other municipal employees.

The B.C. cabinet announced in June that it was relenting in its 6.5 per cent ceiling on government employees' wages by granting employees on B.C. ferries increases of more than 10 per cent.

Several groups of highways workers in B.C. have staged walkouts protesting the government's 6.5 per cent increase granted them in April.

A union spokesman said Thursday the new wage increase adjustments for highways workers amount to $40 a month for those earning less than $700 a month; $30 for those in the $700-$800 range and $20 for those above $800 a month.

For those in the manual group he said, it will amount to $25-$40 a month more, for correctional service employees and tradesmen, up to $30, and for clerks and stenographers it will be a $13 to $15 increase.

The spokesman said the B.C. GEU executive will meet in Vancouver on Saturday to discuss the wage increases and there will likely be an announcement Monday.

In Prince George, Peter Marshall, BCGEU regional vice-president, said it would take at least a month to conduct a ratification vote among the government employees affected.

RARE VIOLIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — When the Vancouver Soroptimist Club inherited a rare old Lupot violin from the estate of the late Ruth Jones, it decided to give it to a violinist who could never hope to own so rare an instrument.

The club chose Gwendy Hoebig, a 12-year-old North Vancouver girl who won the British Columbia division of the national musical festival. The Lupot, considered the French Stradivarius, was made between 1758 and 1825.

STORE DESTROYED

NELSON (CP) — Damage has been estimated at $125,000 here following a fire which destroyed a downtown Overwaitea store.

It took firemen about two hours to subdue the blaze which was breaking through the roof of the store when they arrived.

WORLD NEWS

PINNING THE PM
ALDRIDGE, England (CP) — Staffordshire librarian Roger Mitchell devised an offset method to keep local youngsters off the streets and induce them into his library—he set up a "hate corner" where the kids can throw darts at photographs of prominent British personalities. Prime Minister Edward Heath, Opposition Leader Harold Wilson and television personality David Frost are among the targets.

BOSSES BLACKMAILED

LONDON (CP) — Pay us more or we'll tell customers about your boozy habits. That's the ultimatum from an association of executives' secretaries to their bosses in support of a long-awaited pay raise. "We're not telling any more white lies about the boss sleeping out when in fact he's being it off after a boozy lunch," said Carol Blaymire, a £2,000-a-year secretary and founder member of the association.

RELEASE CAPTIVE

MONTEVIDEO (Reuter) — Guerrillas have released a 23-year-old shoe factory executive after holding him captive for 69 days, apparently because a labor dispute at the factory was solved and a ransom in food and clothes given to poor Uruguayans.

ROB 31 ON BUS

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Three youths boarded a bus Thursday night, held the driver at gunpoint and robbed 31 passengers. Police said the robbers got about $600 in cash, 13 watches and several rings.

Kluane 'A Jewel' Of Canada's Parks

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Someday the Kluane will be recognized as the jewel in Canada's national park system, says Manfred Hoefs, a graduate student at the University of British Columbia who has spent most of the last three years in this part of southwest Yukon.

Hoefs, a 36-year-old biologist, organized the 1,000-odd persons living along the eastern boundaries of the area and drew up a 1,300-name petition which was sent to Ottawa last year seeking national park status for the Kluane.

Ottawa agreed. Few Canadians had ever heard of the Kluane until the government announced in February this year that it would be one of the three national parks to be created in the North.

The others will be located on the South Nahanni River in the Northwest Territories and on Baffin Island in the eastern Arctic.

The Kluane's most celebrated attraction is 19,850-foot Mount Logan, highest peak in Canada.

The 8,500-square-mile park can be divided into three general landscape types: the high glacial mountains, the alpine tundra mountain area and the glaciated river valleys.

Summits in the Kluane Range average 6,000 to 8,000 feet. Most of it is alpine tundra with spruce forest on the lower slopes.

Westwards, the elevations rise steadily and peaks coalesce under ice to form a broad, high glacier plateau between 8,000 and 10,000 feet known as the Icefield Ranges. This plateau forms a base for the high peaks of the St. Elias Mountains.

The St. Elias forms the core of the area. It includes the most massive and some of the highest mountains in North America. The major peaks, all over 14,000 feet, include Mount Lucania, Mount Steele, Mount St. Elias, Mount Vancouver, Mount Hubbard and the imposing block of Mount Logan.

Another outstanding land feature is the Shakkwak Valley which extends along most of the northeastern boundary. The Alaska Highway runs through much of this 140-mile trench.

Kluane Lake, 40 miles long and three miles wide in places, is in the centre of the valley. It is the largest lake in the Yukon.

HAS DRY CLIMATE

One of the most surprising aspects of the valley is its semi-arid climate. Annual precipitation is less than 10 inches.

In the park area in general, Mr. Hoefs says the winters "are really not that bad."

"There is a chinook nearly every month which raises the temperature above freezing."

"The first flowers, pussy willow and crocus, appear in mid-May and last of the ice is generally out of the lakes by the end of June."

In summer the valley is virtually free of mosquitoes and black flies.

Much is actually prairie country and many of the plants are what one would expect to find in Alberta or Saskatchewan.

These grasslands make the winter range for the Dall sheep for which the Kluane is famous.

Mr. Hoefs estimates there are more than 5,000 Dall sheep in the park. Moose are also common.

Indians have lived in the valley for as far back as legends go and still make up most of the population. The history of white men in the area goes back to 1900 when prospectors flocked down from the Klondike.

Mr. Hoefs says the one big drawback to the park is getting there.

"The drive from Vancouver to Kluane Lake is 2,000 miles and the last 800 are not paved. Few cars make the trip without losing at least a windshield from flying rocks."

Another Flash In Pan Likely After European Fiscal Meeting

LONDON (CP) — A display of accord on international monetary reform by finance ministers from the 10 countries expected to form the enlarged Common Market is likely to prove little more than another flash in the pan in the long search for European agreement.

The countries involved, the six present members of the European Common Market and four applicant states, announced agreement on a series of broad principles for reform during a two-day meeting which ended here Tuesday.

But they skirted the controversial and pressing questions of the future role of gold, the value of the dollar and the use to be made of special drawing rights, a type of international reserve asset.

Unless a far more substantial accord can be reached by the ministers at a meeting set for Sept. 11-12, the Europeans will be without a common bargaining position when they meet representatives from Canada, the U.S. and other members of the International Monetary Fund later in September.

The IMF meeting in Washington will be devoted largely to the reconstruction of the international system of finance and trade, disrupted since the U.S. suspended the gold convertibility of the dollar last August.

The Europeans are extremely anxious to reach a common bargaining stance, not only to counter American influence within the IMF but also to make up for recent events which have cast some doubt on whether an enlarged Common Market will ever be able to agree on a single economic system.

One step toward a common economic arrangement within the ECM was the decision of the 10 countries last April to support each other's currencies within a narrower margin than that permitted internationally.

This policy was shattered in June, however, when Britain allowed sterling to float on international exchanges in response to intense selling pressure in major markets.

The ministers' reluctance to discuss the dollar and other areas requiring attention was seen by observers here as a clear indication that wide differences still exist among the 10 countries on the basic issue of what form a new international financial system should take.

The general principles agreed to are not likely to be considered objectionable by any government. The critical issue is how these are to be implemented.

WAS BRITISH STAND

Basically, the points agreed to are a re-affirmation of the position taken by the British during negotiations in 1943 and 1944 leading to creation of the present system.

These include provision for fixed exchange rates, international control of liquidity—the reserves available to help countries finance deficits, provision for securing necessary adjustments in the balance of payments of participating countries and for maintaining convertible currencies.

Britain now is pressing for an enlargement of special drawing rights, or SDRs, to form the basic unit of reserve and a phasing out of the dollar from its reserve role. But British treasury officials say they do not insist that this be done quickly.

"It might take several years," said one treasury source.

The French, however, are less patient. French negotiators contend that unless the dollar is first removed from its reserve position, SDRs cannot be increased. Otherwise an increase in SDRs would only help prop up and prolong the dollar's reserve role, they argue.

Bennett Changes His Mind About Flood-Payment Policy

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett has changed his mind about making provincial flood victims go directly to Ottawa to collect their federal share of compensation for damages.

In a telegram sent Wednesday to Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the premier offered the services of the provincial government to forward federal payments.

Monday Mr. Bennett said that anyone entitled to compensation should get in touch with Ottawa to get their federal share, implying Victoria was refusing its cooperation.

Wednesday's telegram makes no reference to the cost-sharing formula Ottawa has proposed. Mr. Bennett has emphatically rejected the proposal and there is not yet any agreement on cost-sharing.

CHEQUES MAILED
The province has, however, begun mailing cheques covering a flat 50 per cent of assessed damages, which is the amount Mr. Bennett believes the province should pay.

Under the proposed federal formula, the provincial share would be more than 50 per cent.

It would appear that if both sides refuse to budge, the flood victims will not receive 100-per-cent compensation.

A spokesman in Ottawa for the federal finance department said Tuesday that the federal government was unlikely to make any alteration to its formula; and Mr. Bennett has made it clear he has no intention of changing his.
